MUCH AIRPLANE NEWS. Nobile, Italian, started at 4:40 yesterday morning from Spitsbergen to cross the North Pole, 750 miles away. He dropped a wooden and metal cross given to him by the Pope.

Another Italian, Captain Sabelli, good fighter in the war, expects to start from New York to Rome in a few days in a Bellanca plane.

And the French start a flight westward from Brest to the Statue of Liberty, by way of the Azores, within two weeks.

The important air news is Lindbergh's appointment as chief adviser of the Air Rail Company, to carry passengers across the continent in Pullmans at night, airplanes by day, in 48 hours. That Lindbergh deal is a triumph for General Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who visited Henry Ford at Dearborn last Friday.

President Coolidge vetoes the McNary-Haugen bill, pronouncing it UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

The President says it would aid foreign competitors of our farmers instead of solving our own farm problem, stimulate profiteering, and call for a new gigantic bureaucracy.

That probably ends the bill for this session, leaving one worry for the next President.

Every year for 22 years Howard Porter's tame mud turtle has crawled from its swampy home to a mountain two miles away, returning when the summer ends.

Evolutionists tell you that monkeys, migrating from damp low lands, up hill toward the mountains, with front legs higher than hind legs, gradually learned to stand up straight. And in consequence men now walk upright and look at the stars instead of the ground.

You are not compelled to believe that.

Madame Reggio, opera singer, climbed the 1358 steps of New York's Woolworth building in 13 minutes, 4 seconds, beating previous records.

Thirty-eight years old, weight 104 pounds, the lady earned $3000 by the climb and did a useful thing by impressing the health value of singing. Nothing develops the lungs as singing does. Sing at your work and avoid consumption. Teach your children to sing. Imitate the British, who always sing, whether they CAN sing or not.

England's King and Queen have met an American girl of whom her country may be proud. Miss Ruth Draper, presented at court last night, inherited a compound intelligence, and her work proves it.

A young woman of such rare intelligence and talent should be married, and mother of many children. That, of course, is her business, but careers for women, unfortunately, often keep fine children out of the world.

That war gas explosion in Hamburg becomes more interesting to Americans. Chicago's stock yards will be interested to know one single gas tank exploding can make it necessary to burn all foodstuffs WITHIN FIVE MILES OF THE EXPLOSION.

What would a dozen such tanks do if dropped from the air.

FORGRAVE BACKS UP RUM CHARGES

DRY LEADER WILL PROVE STORY OF 'WILD PARTIES' HELD AT STATE HOUSE

Replying to Governor Fuller's defense of officials in connection with State House rum charges, William M. Forgrave, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, today backed up his surprising story.

Supt. Forgrave said he is ready to produce detective-witnesses before an investigating body to support his charges of "wild parties" at the State House.

He said the Governor is confusing the present allegations with rumors of "wine-and-women weekend parties" three years ago which the League failed to prove.

Frank A. Goodwin, former registrar of motor vehicles, propelled himself into the situation with the words:

"The Governor's expressed desire for an investigation is pure bunk unless he promises immunity from discharge to state employes who dare to tell the truth."

Besides his defense of two officials, his own secretary, Herman A. MacDonald, and Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote, the Governor has asked the Legislature to conduct a full inquiry, and rapid action is predicted.

Pointed reference to Gen. Foote and MacDonald was made by Goodwin in his statement today.

"Well, it looks as if the Governor has finally got to the point where he cannot carry the load for Foote and MacDonald any longer," said the former registrar, adding:

"There is just one comment to make on the Governor's expressed desire that the truth be known. He should now issue a proclamation to all state employes promising them that they need have no fear of being removed from their position, if they tell the truth.

"If the Governor does not do this, many employes who have important evidence in their possession will not care to tell what they know. The Governor knows this."

There is to be a public hearing tomorrow by the rules committee of the House on an order calling for an investigation of the charges by the Legislature. This is the order introduced by Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware.

House and Senate are expected to

Crowd of World Series Size at Shibe Park

Philadelphia, May 24 (AP)—Scenes that brought memories of the World's Series day were witnessed around Shibe Park, where the fast stepping Yankees and Athletics opened a six game series with a double-header today.

Before 9 a. m. 500 eager fans had gathered about the famous ball field. The crowd grew so great that a special detail of police was summoned to maintain order and keep traffic open.

There were several thousand men and boys around the park shortly after 10 o'clock so the management opened the gates before 11 a. m.

The weather was clear but cool.

GEN. NOBILE DROPS POPE PIUS' CROSS AND FLAGS ON TOP OF THE WORLD

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, May 24 (AP)—A cross containing a message written by Pope Pius was dropped on the North Pole today from the dirigible Italia, marking the third trip by air to the top of the world.

Gen. Umberto Nobile kept in constant communication with the motherships Citta di Milano here as the dirigible made its way under his command to the pole some 780 miles north of here.

At 1:20 a. m., almost 21 hours after the start of the venture, he wirelessed that the airship was over the North Pole.

MONSIGNOR M'MANUS OF BROOKLINE DEAD

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael T. McManus, permanent rector of the Church of St. Mary of the Assumption, Brookline, died today at the rectory, 5 Linden pl., Brookline, aged 81. Mgr. McManus had been in failing health for a year and confined to bed the last month.

Born in Ireland in 1847 he came to this country when 21 years old and entered the Franciscan College at Allegheny in 1861. He completed his classical course there with high honors and went to the provincial seminary at Troy, N. Y., being ordained to the priesthood in 1870.

He was made assistant to the Rev. Michael O'Brien at St. Patrick's Church, Lowell, remained there six years and was then made rector of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. From West Newton he was appointed rector of St. Patrick's Church, South Lawrence, and in January, 1900, became rector of the church of St. Mary of the Assumption, Brookline. He was elevated to monsignor in 1929 the honor being brought to him by Cardinal O'Connell from Rome.

HORNSBY TELLS 'EM

Rogers Hornsby lost no time in assuming command of the Braves today.

Less than 12 hours after he had been named to succeed Jack Slattery as pilot of the Tribe, he assembled all of Judge Fuchs' hired men in the clubhouse at the Wigwam and for more than an hour explained to them in detail just what will be expected of them in the future.

After a few minutes of listening, the athletes were convinced that working under Slattery and working under Hornsby is as different as night and day.

Slattery issued few orders, Hornsby issued many.

Whether the hard-boiled driving Rogers will be any more successful than the quiet, unassuming Jack time alone will tell, but it must be admitted that the new leader's methods certainly produced most extraor-

COURT LETS FOLEY CALL VICE PROBE WITNESSES

Irritated by the evasions of persons known to possess important information regarding vice conditions, District Attorney William J. Foley today obtained permission from the Superior Court to issue summonses.

These summonses give him the power to call witnesses to his office, and failure to obey will result in the imposition of contempt of court penalties.

The action was understood to be directed specifically against certain women of the underworld who have been missing from their usual haunts for a week, and who cannot be found by investigators.

Armed with this authority the dis-

4 COAST GUARDS HELD IN $40,000 IN GIRL ATTACK

Her escort taken from her side and held captive at gunpoint, Miss Lillian Corcoran, 20, of Fountain av., Somerville, was brutally attacked on a lonely road in Reading near the Wakefield rifle range.

Four members of the Coast Guard service, attached to barracks on the range, are under arrest today charged with the crime. Arraigned in Woburn court, each was held in $10,000 for trial Monday, when it is expected Miss Corcoran will have recovered sufficiently to stand the ordeal of court proceedings.

FARMERS CALLED 'TO ARMS' ON FARM VETO

Chicago, May 24 (AP)—Many agricultural leaders throughout the Middle West today expressed disappointment over the veto of the McNary-Haughen bill.

Republican candidates for state offices decried the action of President Coolidge, but Wisconsin dairy farmers applauded it. Democrats invited the "helpless minority of the Republican party to join" with them to obtain "efficient relief."

Farmers were urged "to arise and assert their rights," by Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska, who said: "We can expect no effective farm legislation from the present administration nor from any candidate like Hoover, whose only claim for recognition is based on his blind

FOLEY TO CALL WITNESSES IN VICE CASE

trict attorney hopes to be able to surmount the wall of professed ignorance, evasion and subterfuge that has confronted him since he began his vice and graft probe.

The authority was requested and granted to Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle in Superior Court today, and preparations were made at once to put it into effect.

CAN DEMAND ARRESTS

It is understood that if the persons whose information is sought continue to absent themselves they will be declared in contempt of court and warrants will be issued for their arrest.

In connection with the attempt to obtain information regarding proprietors of disreputable houses, the district attorney and his assistant today questioned one ranking official and three patrolmen attached to a downtown police station. Because these policemen are considered faithful and honest in the performance of their duties, their names were not given out.

The authorities also interrogated a certain man who is believed to have acted as a "straw man" in the holding of properties. He was asked why his name was used and the part he played in the juggling of titles and ownership of various "joints."

It was reported that members of the Boston liquor squad were to be interrogated this afternoon in connection with Municipal Court records that investigators for the district attorney's office have been checking up.

The district attorney is anxious to obtain information concerning a woman prominent in the underworld, said to have been arrested in a recent raid. When the cases were heard this woman was found not guilty and dismissed, while her companions were fined, it was stated. Attempts to obtain her real identity from court records have been futile and it is thought that the liquor squad officers might throw some illumination on this darkness.

WOMEN RESORT TO LIES.

The district attorney has experienced much difficulty, it was learned, in obtaining accurate information regarding the ownership of disreputable houses. The women who run them have either disappeared, or when questioned have declared they did not know to whom they paid their rent. Others have given false names, and otherwise attempted to mislead and baffle the authorities.

It was revealed today that a comparatively recent raid on a downtown hotel was inspired by a member of a crime commission said to have been investigating conditions in this city for more than a year.

This investigator, said to have been accosted on Tremont st. by a "butterfly" and to have accompanied her to the hotel. At the desk an argument took place, and the investigator left his companion, only to summon the liquor squad, which raided the establishment. It is understood the girl was acquitted in court.

'Spot Cash' Auto Fines in Lynn Court Hereafter

A commercial note of great interest came out of Lynn today, Judge Ralph W. Reeve announcing that from now on his establishment will operate as a going concern on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

There will be no more inscribing fines on the judicial cuff, no more instalment plan—or "budget system" if you will—all bon mots of famous merchant and finance persons as to success of the credit idea, notwithstanding.

Judge Reeve switched his judicial business practice to a straight cash basis after wearily listening to the Thursday weekly lineup of requests to be allowed to pay $5 and $10 automobile fines on the "dollar-down-and-then-sometime" plan.

"Beginning next week, all offenders must be prepared to pay their fines on the spot, or else work them out inside the walls," said Judge Reeve. "Any man who can afford to own and support an automobile should be able to pay his fine."

340 RESCUED FROM BERING SEA WRECK

Seattle, Wash., May 24 (AP)—The splintered hulk of the cannery supply boat Star of Falkland today was breaking up on the rocks near Unimak Pass in Bering sea, while 240 Chinese and 40 Americans, taken off by coast guard cutters, a lighthouse tender and the steamship Arctic were proceeding to Bristol bay, coast guard advices said.

100 ARE ARRESTED AFTER BOMB OUTRAGE

Buenos Aires, May 24 (AP)—One hundred known extremists were under arrest today as police sought those responsible for a "comb outrage in which seven persons were known to have been killed and for the planting of a second bomb, the explosion of which was prevented.

SECURE GINGER ALE JUDGMENT OF $172,000

New York, May 24 (INS)—John Todd, Inc., of Springfield, Mass., was awarded full damages of $172,590 in a judgment filed today in the county clerk's office and based on a verdict returned by a jury in the plaintiff corporation's suit against the Beverage Products Company, Inc., of New York and William L. Sunshine, Benjamin W. Knapp and Benjamin Strump.

The plaintiff alleged the three men after accepting two carloads of an order of 528 carloads of ginger-ale contracted for had refused to take any more.

The defendants said they had formed the Beverage Products Company, Inc., to take over the contract, but the plaintiff refused to sell the remaining 528 carloads unless assured the Beverage Products Company would not manufacture gingerale.

GEN. NOBILE DROPS CROSS AT NORTH POLE FOR THE POPE

The flags of Italy and Milan, the cross presented by the Pope to Gen. Nobile and various souvenirs were dropped on the pole.

The cross is about six feet high with a metal base and has a repository in which the message written in Latin by Pope Pius was placed.

Immediately after the cross was dropped, the airship sent wireless greetings to Pope Pius, King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Mussolini and Nobile's wife by wireless through the Citta di Milano.

Nobile Circles Over Pole on His Historic Flight

Oslo, Norway, May 24 (AP)—Having viewed the North Pole from the air for the second time General Umberto Nobile today was heading back to Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, in the dirigible Italia.

For almost an hour early today the Italian exploring expedition which he headed cruised back and forth over the Pole, making the fourth time man has reached the top of the world.

Starting from Kings Bay at 4:40 a. m., Wednesday, with a crew and a number of scientists aboard, the Italia headed to the north, bearing a cross which Pope Pius had presented to Nobile to be planted or dropped at the pole. It took the airship more than 20 hours to reach the pole, which is 750 miles from Kings Bay.

CIRCLES OVER POLE.

Arriving there about 1 a. m. today, the dirigible circled around until nearly 2 a. m., when its nose was turned southward and it headed for Kings Bay. There the base forces of the expedition eagerly awaited Gen. Nobile's return, hoping that in that hour of cruising he had wrested new secrets from the frozen North.

This latest conquest of the Pole was the fourth, including Peary's trek with sleds across the frozen seas of the Arctic. Two years ago Nobile, then a colonel, flew over the Pole from Spitsbergen to Alaska with Lincoln Ellsworth and Roald Amundsen in the dirigible Norge.

This flight was preceded a few days by the airplane flight to the Pole and return from Spitsbergen made by Commander Richard E. Byrd and the late Floyd Bennett.

LINKED TO BASE BY AIR

On his return from the Norge expedition Nobile immediately began preparations for the present flight of which he is in supreme command.

The Italia was in communication with the base ship Citta di Milano at Kings Bay by radio at intervals during the trip northward. At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning it passed over Amsterdam island, northwest of Spitsbergen. Three hours later the airship radioed that the flight was progressing satisfactorily and all was well.

At 3 o'clock at night the Italia again reported "all's well," but did not give its position. The remainder of the dispatch to the base ship was in cipher and had to be sent to Rome to be decoded.

Two hours later a wireless message said the airship was following the 24th west meridian northward of Greenland toward the Pole and expected to reach his goal within three hours.

Base Ship Waits Further News From Nobile's Craft

(Copyright by the Associated Press, 1928.)

Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, May 24 (AP)—The ship Citta di Milano, which was in communication with the Italia until 7:45 o'clock today, when the dirigible asked for its position, was trying to get in touch with the airship, no word having been received from the Italia since that time. As the airship carries only one radio operator, it was believed he was taking a much-needed sleep after having obtained the dirigible's position.

The personnel of the Citta di Milano said that the ship remained over the North Pole for two hours, but that Gen. Nobile sent no messages as to whether a descent had been made from the airship, as had been planned. They were inclined to think that no one descended.

Pope Sends Congratulations to Nobile and His Crew

Rome, May 24 (AP)—Cardinal Gaspari, papal secretary of state, in a message to Father Gianfranceschi, chaplain of the Nobile expedition, expresses the Pope's gratification over the success attained, saying:

"The Holy Father is particularly gratified at the auspicious announcement that the glorious enterprise has been accomplished, thanks to the Almighty, through the work of Gen. Nobile and his valorous companions. Aided by divine providence, the sign of the redemption is now sanctifying the heretofore unexplored Arctic region.

"His Holiness hopes that they will attain ever new conquests for faith and science, and paternally imparts again to them his apostolic benediction."

King and Duce Receive Greetings From the Pole

Rome, May 24 (AP)—Messages from Gen. Nobile at the North Pole were received here today by King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini. The message to the King follows:

"From the North Pole, the crew of the Italia sends reverent thought to Your Majesty."

The message received by Premier Mussolini said:

"Today (Thursday) at 1:20 o'clock, the flag of Italy once more was spread to the breeze over the polar ice."

Nobile's Radio to Pope Pius From North Pole

ROME, May 24 (AP)—The Vatican announced this morning that the following message had been received from Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the dirigible Italia on its successful flight to the Pole:

"At 1.20 a. m. today, the 24th, with profound emotion we have let fall upon the ice of the North Pole the cross which Your Holiness entrusted to us.

"I and my companions express to Your Holiness our gratitude for the most high commission bestowed upon us and renew the expression of our profoundest devotion.

"GEN. NOBILE."

LOW FLYING PILOT IS PUNISHED BY ARMY

San Antonio, Tex., May 24—Second Lieut. Lloyd E. Hunting, Kelly Field pilot, is to be officially reprimanded, reduced 100 numbers on the promotion list and lose $50 a month from his pay for six months.

This was the sentence of an army courtmartial after Hunting had been found guilty of endangering the lives of three motorists by low flying and causing one motor to go into a ditch.

adherence to the anti-agricultural attitude of the chief executive.

"We call on the farmers to go to the conventions, especially Kansas City, where the people, instead of the classes, will be represented. Let 100,000 farmers confront that convention and demand economic justice."

Senate Will Be First to Act Upon Veto

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Twice vetoed at the White House after having passed Congress, the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill leaned on uncertain supports today.

There was considerable doubt of an attempt to override President Coolidge's veto. Sen. McNary (Republican), Oregon co-author of the measure, believed it futile, but as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, called a meeting to discuss a plan of action.

The House, which passed the bill 26 votes short of the required two-thirds, will not act officially on the veto until the Senate disposes of it.

That the farm issue will be injected into the national convention next month is regarded as certain.

Secretary Hoover and Frank O. Lowden, chief contenders for delegate support at Kansas City, are divided on the subject. The cabinet officer is regarded as holding views similar to those of Mr. Coolidge. Lowden advocates the McNary-Haugen bill, Vice-President Dawes also favors it, and Senators Curtis, of Kansas, and Watson, of Indiana, voted for it.

L. J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, said a substitute must be found for the McNary-Haugen bill.

MANSFIELD MOTHER WINS FREEDOM PLEA FOR SON

Philadelphia, May 24 (AP)—A mother's plea for her 18-year-old son, whom she had not seen for 17 years, won a parole for Charles Greely, serving a three-year term in prison for burglary.

Mrs. Nora Francis of Mansfield, Mass., told Judge E. O. Lewis the youth, convicted under an assumed name, had been deprived of her care through force of circumstances. The boy's father was killed by a train shortly before the child's birth, and the mother, then 17, placed him in an asylum at Taunton, Mass. The boy ran away and she lost trace of him. She came here with her second husband. They will take the youth home with them and Francis said he would adopt him.

KILLS DAUGHTER, SHOOTS WIFE AND ENDS OWN LIFE

Philadelphia, May 24 (AP)—An estranged husband shot and killed his daughter as she lay in bed early today, seriously wounded his wife and then killed himself. Another daughter, lying beside her sister, was spared.

The dead man was John Olcock. His slain daughter, Fennie, was 27. Mrs. Florence Olcock, 45, has wounds in the stomach and left shoulder. She is not expected to recover.

OLD CAPTAIN YIELDS TO CALL OF THE SEA

The call of the sea, to which he turned a deaf ear three years ago, again proved too strong for Capt. Heinrich Schlichting of Roxbury, and when the S. S. Westphalia—namesake of the vessel he once captained—sails from Boston tomorrow night Schlichting will be aboard.

And he will sail alone, although he met the woman now his wife when his ship, the old Westphalia, rescued her and other passengers of a storm-wrecked steamer off Ireland.

It will be the third trip he has made on the Hamburg-American liner Westphalia since his retirement.

"This year," Mrs. Schlichting said, "my husband was not going. He was going to forget the sea. But a few weeks ago I noticed him getting fidgety and knew this was coming.

"No, I'm not going. The reason is because I wasn't asked. He likes to ship alone so he can live over the days of his youth. When he will come back I don't know. A good ship captain forms his own ideas and carries them out."

3 HORSES SUFFOCATED IN SOMERVILLE FIRE

Three horses were suffocated today in fire of suspicious origin, according to fire department officials, in the two-story wooden stable and storehouse of Joseph Hauser in a settled tenement district on Prospect st., Somerville.

When the door of the stable was flung open one of the horses dropped dead in the doorway. Harness and other equipment were also destroyed and the loss was estimated at $2000.

BULLETS FLY IN CHASE AFTER AUTO SUSPECT

Racing through black Newton woods with a flashlight holding two fleeing men in view and revolver blazing over the heads of the fugitives, Motorcycle Officer Alfred Hammell of Newton captured one of a pair of alleged "technical auto thieves" early today.

The fusillade of shots roused the family and servants on the estate of Robert Gould Shaw, 3d, along whose boundary the chase followed.

Newton police were confronted with a curious phase of auto "stealing" when the owner of a car that was being stripped of tires and accessories in Dedham st., the Oak Hill section near the West Roxbury line, informed the police he had given the captive, John J. Sacco, 29, of Bromley pl., Roxbury, permission to use the car.

According to Inspector Richard J. Good, the deal engaged in by Sacco and the owner involves the "theft" of the car, its being stripped as much as possible, its being reported stolen, its recovery by police and then the collecting of insurance money for the missing tires, battery and the like.

Inspector Good, in Newton court, asked that the automobile owner be held as a material witness. But the owner, a Roxbury man, had slipped out of the courtroom meanwhile and disappeared.

Sacco was charged with the larceny of an automobile and with driving a car without a license. He was held in $2100 bail for hearing.

PUPILS OF TWO CITIES IN PERIL

Hundreds of school children were imperilled today by runaway horses in Revere and Somerville.

In the Beach City a horse attached to a junk wagon was stopped at the door of the McKinley grammar school on Yeaman st. by Traffic Officer Harry McKinley after a dash through the schoolyard, in which frightened children were scattered to all sides.

Two horses, drawing a heavy milk wagon, ran wild through Davis sq., Somerville, sideswiping another wagon and an automobile, and coming to a halt only when they crashed into a trolley car and were thrown. Passengers in the trolley car were shaken up.

FORGRAVE TO PROVE STORY OF 'WILD PARTIES' AT STATE HOUSE

investigate together at public hearings similar to those in the case of Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading.

Following his message to the Legislature requesting thorough investigation, Governor Fuller indicated his attitude by saying that three years ago "an informant" accused two officials of taking liquor from the state police storeroom for parties but found, on investigation, that the information was untrue.

Supt. Forgrave, local Anti-Saloon League chief, admitting today that he was that informant, said that the present charges have no connection with those of three years ago.

He said:

PARTIES ABOARD BOAT.

"Three years ago I received what seemed to be authentic rumors of wine-and-women week-end parties being held on the boat belonging to the Department of Public Safety, an, that these parties were being participated in by a prominent State official and an attache of the Governor's office.

"These I called to the Governor's attention, simply for his information and protection. He authorized me to make an investigation into these rumors, which I did and reported back to him in ten days or two weeks time that apparently the rumors were not well-founded. Therefore, I did not recommend spending the large sum of money necessary for a thorough investigation.

"The Governor is confusing the matter taken up with him three years ago which, so far as I am concerned, was dropped at that time, with the complaints which I have made recently regarding parties held at the State House on April 24, 1927 immediately following the prorouing of the Legislature that year and the various other reports we have received as to conditions of drunkenness inside the State House.

"I am highly pleased that the Governor is to order a thorough investigation. The League stands ready to assist in any way it can, but it does not pretend to be a super-government and, therefore, we have not probed conditions at the State House to the bottom. But we have evidence enough to require a thorough investigation at the hands of the Governor.

DEMANDS FULL PROBE.

"Moreover, the charges I have made have no doubt been confused by Governor Fuller and others with those made by ministers regarding the Howard investigation. These are entirely distinct, except that if there is going to be a complete investigation it must naturally include the storage room in the cellar of the State House as well as the rest of the building.

"Let's have an investigation limited in scope only by the four walls of the State House.

"I am prepared at the proper time to produce witnesses who will testify as to what went on at the prorogation party. These witnesses are two detectives, one at present in New York, the other in Vermont. I am in touch with them and will produce them if called upon to do so."

Stories told by witnesses before the commission on administration and finance are at wide variance with "the gossip that appears to have gone round the State," according to Charles P. Howard, chairman of the commission, which is conducting a private investigation of charges that seized liquors in possession of the State police, were used by favored officials and employes.

This investigation, which is to culminate in a private report to the Governor, is due to end tomorrow. About 60 witnesses have been heard.

An opinion as to whether a new system of handling seized liquors should be adopted will be incorporated in the Howard Commission's report to Governor Fuller, Chairman Howard said today. The report will probably go to the Governor next Wednesday, he said.

MASONS TO DEDICATE WHITTALL ESTATE

Worcester, May 24—Juniper Hall Shrewsbury, the magnificent $200,000 Whittall estate, will be dedicated at a special communication of the grand lodge on the premises, Memorial Day, at which time the keys to the estate will be turned over to the master and wardens of the grand lodge of Massachusetts.

$40,000 BAIL IN GIRL ATTACK

The Coast Guardsmen jailed are Chief Petty Officer Maynard R. Richardson, Boatswain William T. Garmar, Fireman Harvey E. Simpson and Fireman Walter H. Ristow. Each of them is charged with attempted criminal attack and assault with a dangerous weapon.

FIGHTS 2 ATTACKERS

With her sweetheart, James F. Sullivan, 23, of 257 Cross st., Malden, Miss Corcoran was in an auto parked on the Reading rd late last night when, according to their story, four service men appeared and forced Sullivan at gun point to leave the car and walk down the road.

While the girl screamed and struggled to fight off two assailants, Sullivan broke away from the other two and raced through the woods for help. With Patrolman Rowe of Wakefield, Patrolman Long of Reading and State Officer Ryan, he was returning to the scene when the party met the girl stumbling along the road.

She told them Simpson had not participated in the attempted attack, and when Sullivan's escape had frightened the other three, he had escorted her from the woods.

BLAMES TWO OTHERS

At a midnight rollcall in the Wakefield barracks, Miss Corcoran and Sullivan identified Simpson and Richardson. Later Patrolman Long returned to the range and found the other two defendants in custody of the Coast Guard authorities. Long testified in Woburn court that Ristow admitted he was one of the party and that he held a gun, which, he claimed, Richardson and Garmar had given him.

Chief Jeremiah Cullinane of the Reading police told Judge Morton, Simpson did not appear to be as guilty as the others and Lieut. Maud of the Coast Guard barracks also spoke in behalf of Simpson.

Lieut. Maud told the court if the four men were turned over to the Coast Guard they would stand court martial before the court trial. Chief Cullinane objected to this procedure, saying the Coast Guard "might send them to Honolulu" and Judge Morton agreed to hold them in high bail for trial Monday.

CARDINAL TO ORDAIN 29 TO PRIESTHOOD

Cardinal O'Connell will ordain a class of 29 young men to the priesthood tomorrow at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

This is said to be one of the largest classes ever ordained at the Cathedral.

The young men who will be ordained are members of this year's graduating class of St. John's Seminary, Brighton.

Each of the young men to be ordained tomorrow will celebrate his first mass on Sunday in his parish church.

Fog Delays Fliers

Portland, Me., May 24—Gen. James E. Fechet, Capt. Ira C. Eaker and Lieuts. E. R. Quesada and Muir W. Fairchild remain here, it being impossible to soar away to Bolling Field in the two army amphibians with which they went to the Bremen's relief at Greenly Island.

Witnesses in Rum Probe Don't Bear Out Rumors

Chairman Charles P. Howard of the commission on administration and finance said today every one of the three-score witnesses examined under oath in the State rum investigation has told a story far different from the gossip which appears to have gone round the State.

Chairman Howard said he expects the probe to end tomorrow.

CHINA ASKS U. S. TO CURB JAPAN

Washington, May 24 (INS)—A formal request that the United States convoke representatives of the European powers to curb Japan's occupation of Manchuria will be presented to Secretary of State Kellogg by Dr. C. C. Wu, special envoy of the Nanking (Nationalist) Government.

Wu will be received by Kellogg this week or next, it was announced at the State Department.

Concerning the Japanese ultimatum that no Chinese troops will be permitted to invade Manchuria, Dr. Wu said today that China feels Japan has flagrantly violated the nine-power Washington treaty of 1922 guaranteeing the integrity of China.

Kellogg has stated officially since publication of the Japanese ultimatum that the United States recognizes no special rights of any power in Manchuria, beyond Japan's rights under its lease of the Manchurian railroad.

Under the Washington treaty, the powers are obligated to consider jointly what action shall be taken when any signatory violates Chinese sovereignty.

Chinese Nationalist Army Hurled Back

Tokyo, May 24 (AP)—Advices from China indicated today that the Northerners, who defeated the Nationalist forces, threatening to bring about the fall of both Peking and Tientsin, were following up the advantage gained by pursuing the retreating Nationalists.

Canton, China, May 24 (AP)—Troops of Kwantung Province are making a determined drive to wipe out Communism. On Monday they killed 150 alleged Reds on the Island of Hainan.

AMERICAN AND UNITED LIGHT IN BIG MERGER

New York, May 24 (AP)—The New York Times says that negotiations are under way for absorption by the American Light & Traction Company of the United Light & Power Company, which would link properties valued at $375,000,000.

Interest in the proposed combination, the Times says, centers to a large extent upon the influence of the Koppers Company, a Mellon interest, in promoting the merger. Officers and directors of the Koppers Company are also directors of the other two.

Plan Tour of the Stars With Rocket Plane

Berlin, May 24 (INS)—Communication with other planets may be possible after experiments, now under way by Opel Motor Works, are completed.

Fritz von Opel, head of the concern, who attained a speed of 117 miles an hour in a winger automobile driven by a rocket motor, said experiments are not only being made with the motor but also to ascertain how men could breathe and live in the rarified atmosphere of the cosmic spaces.

In the experimental car the rockets are contained in 27 cylinders in the rear, arranged like the holes of a honeycomb. As each rocket explodes and the gas is released the repression drives the machine forward just as a shot causes a gun to "kick" backward.

It is believed a plane equipped with thousands of rockets might be able to travel from planet to planet with the swiftness of the sun.

The Raab-Katzenstein Airplane Works announced it would immediately begin construction of the first 'rocket airplane' to be known as "The Grasshopper."

Oily Faces Quickly Corrected

Doctors say oily skin is a sign of seborrhea, which in time covers the face with coarse pores like the skin of a lemon. But, a sure, quick way has now been found to banish this horrid enemy of beauty.

For a long time beauty specialists have known a perfect treatment for oily skin—a marvelous powdered astringent for reducing the pores. And, to simplify the treatment, many chemists tried to blend that beautifying astringent with face powder. They all failed to find out how to do it until the secret was at last discovered by the specialist who makes La-May Face Powder.

So, if you are getting horrid oily skin let La-May restore it to normal. Or, if you find ugly, enlarged pores on your cheeks, chin and nose, let La-May refine your skin and keep it fine. La-May (French: Pondre L'Amie), is in the stores everywhere; in all shades in two sizes. You will find it goes on smoother, stays on longer and looks better than any other.

CAUTION: Ordinary face powders are not good for oily skin; they contain zinc stearate, which makes them inadermic (skin relaxing)—the reverse of astringent. They open the pores so that the more you powder the more you relax the skin; you encourage oily skin and coarse pores. No wonder millions of women are changing to La-May; even in Paris La-May is called the most wonderful face powder known to science. Save this notice.

NASON GRILLED IN TIDE POWER FRAUD TRIAL

Former State Senator Arthur L. Nason of Haverhill, government witness in Federal Court against John A. Knowlton and Mary E. Cantwell, trustees of the Universal Tide Power Company, under indictment on a mail fraud charge, was subjected to a grilling cross-examination today at the hands of Atty. W. W. Clarke, counsel for the defense.

Nason, in direct testimony, said he had been an employe of the company for almost five years as supervisor of installment stock accounts at a salary of $50 a week and expenses.

Confronted with stock sales slips on which his name appeared as a selling agent for the company, Nason denied he had made any sales of stock and explained the presence of his name on the documents as a method of identification by the concern to show he collected the installment account.

In his opening statement to Judge James A. Lowell and jury, Atty. Clarke declared Nason was entirely familiar with the East Saugus tidal power plant, was actively engaged in promoting the project and sold stock.

Walter A. Lombard, former colonel of a Massachusetts Coast Artillery unit, testified in behalf of the defendants, said that, at the request of Knowlton, he had patented the tidal power idea both in this country and abroad.

SECRETARY OF EAGLES ADMITS THEFT OF $1724

Fall River, May 24 (AP)—David Beloti, former financial secretary of the local branch of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was given a suspended sentence of six months in jail today, after he had pleaded guilty in the district court to larceny of $1724 from the organization.

William S. Connor, an official of the order, told the court Beloti had made restitution, and counsel for the defendant asked that the case be filed, but the prosecution urged a suspended jail sentence.

MOTHER OF 13 TAKES BACK HUSBAND

Bridgeport, Ct., May 24 (INS)—Mrs. Edward Cromwell, who early this week had her husband arrested because "she wanted too many children," expressed a change of heart in city court today, and pleaded for her husband's release.

She agreed to take her husband back again and resume married life where she broke it off. As a result Judge William J. Buckley in city court continued Cromwell's case to June 12 and released him in custody of a probation officer.

Cromwell had been in jail under a breach of peace charge following his wife's complaint. That charge, the prosecuting attorney found, was the only one that possibly could cover Cromwell's case. Meanwhile, Probation Officer J. A. MacConnell was given the case and had Cromwell's mental condition examined.

When the case was called today MacConnell told Judge Buckley the couple had become reconciled and Cromwell should be given another chance to live with his wife. Mrs. Cromwell agreed, and even begged for her husband's freedom.

He had boasted "even 50 babies would not be too many for him." The couple have had 13 children. His salary is $30 a week.

CAMBRIDGE CRACKSMEN GET $1000 IN SAFE JOB

Professional cracksmen drilled and opened the safe in the office of the Mavis Bottling Company, on the second floor at 31 Main st., Cambridge, and stole $1000 and other articles, it was reported at police headquarters today.

The plant is conducted by John F. and Thomas A. Fitzgerald, sons of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston.

Attorney J. R. Callahan Dead

HOPS TO BOSTON FROM PANAMA IN 40 HOURS

Completing a 4200-mile flight from Panama in 40 hours flying time, Lieut. J. E. Parker, U. S. A., piloted a Boeing pursuit plane from Mitchel Field to the Boston airport in one hour and twenty-five minutes today.

Lieut. Parker is attached to the Army air base in Panama. His flight, which consumed a week and was made with seven stop-overs, was in the interests of mapping an airway for the delivery of Army planes scheduled for shipment to the Panama base.

The final hop from Mitchel Field and although the pilot had never been here before he hit the Boston airport in the fog, flying a straight course from Providence.

While preparing his report, Lieut. Parker will stay with friends in Chicopee. He will fly back to Panama via Havana, making the water-hop from Havana to Yucatan.

Ford Has 112,683 Men on Record Payrolls

Detroit, Mich., May 24 (INS)—With 112,683 men at work, the Ford Motor Company now has more employes on the payrolls of its Detroit plants than at any previous time in its history, according to figures given out today by the company officials.

The previous peak of employment was in the summer of 1925, when the company had 110,000 men working.

The employes are distributed as follows: Fordson plant, 75,658; Highland Park, 32,111; Lincoln, 4711.

JOSIAH STONE STANDS UP, BUT HE'S TOO LATE

It will be a long time before the shaken walls and the frayed and anguished throat of Court Clerk Joseph Barry are back to normal again, but Josiah Stone of Lynn was saved from defaulting today in Lynn court, and that is something.

Stone was charged with spteding his automobile, but when Clerk Barry called the name there was no response. Three times Barry droned the name, but still no success.

Then Judge Reeve ordered Stone defaulted and a capias issued for his arrest. While going through the formalities, Probation Officer Charles Colby came across a notation that Stone was "stone deaf."

The situation was explained to Judge Reeve who suggested that the man might be in court at that. So Clerk Barry hunched up his larynx and cooed a loud cry for Josiah Stone. No answer. Up several notches. Barry tightened his voice. No answer. Then, call after call, each more thunderous, tore up out of Barry's talking tunnel until the very chamber itself seemed to bend and sway beneath the torture.

Then Clerk Barry had his bright idea:

Everyone in court who is NOT Josiah Stone, stand up. Josiah followed the lead of the crowd, but not being in on the secret, he was late away from the line. And so he was found.

It was a written "conversation" carried on between Judge Reeve and Stone at the bench, but the Judge wrote last. This inscription read: "Ten dollars."

BOYS FIGHT DUEL WITH RIFLE AND SLING SHOT

Chicago, May 24 (INS)—Two boys, unable to settle an argument as to which was the faster weapon, an air rifle or a sling shot, decided to fight a duel.

As a result Edward Brozaukas, 12, is in a hospital with a "BB" shot in his neck, and Al Chapas, 12, is a prisoner in the juvenile home. The boys faced each other in a room in Al's home, counted "one, two, three" and fired. The air rifle won.

NORTH SALEM MAN HELD; IS ACCUSED OF HOLDUP

William Welch of Meade ct., North Saleem, was arrested by Revere police today and accused of robbery in connection with the holdup Sunday of Joseph Ryan of Chelsea in Ocean ave., Revere. Ryan identified Welch, saying he took $20 to $40 and jumped into a taxi. A cab driver identified Welch as a man he drove from Revere to a Lynn lunchroom and the lunchroom proprietor corroborated the identification.

UXBRIDGE SELECTMEN WARNED OF OVERDRAFTS

A number of appropriations of the town of Uxbridge have been overdrawn to the extent of $6151, it was revealed today in a report made to the selectmen by Theodore N. Waddell, state director of accounts. The report, signed by Edward H. Fenton, chief accountant of the division, criticizes the selectmen for permitting overdrafts, which, it was pointed out, is a violation of the statutes, punishable by $1000 fine or a years imprisonment or both. The report states that $1061 of the overdrafts was carried over from 1926 and that attention has been called to this same condition in previous years.

MORE HOOVER AND SMITH FUND GIVERS FACE GRILL

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The Senate presidential campaign investigating committee decided today to remain in Washington after the adjournment of Congress provided that comes by June 2. The investigators voted against another trip to New York to inquire further into activities of the organization advancing the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith and to look into the work of the organization there for Herbert Hoover. Instead it will call witnesses to Washington.

BOULDER DAM CLASH MAY TIE UP SENATE

Washington, May 24 (INS)—The six-year fight for the building of Boulder Canyon Dam moved rapidly toward a dramatic climax today, with the House about to vote on the bill and the Senate given the choice of breaking a filibuster or remaining in night and day session for 72 hours.

Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, declaring that he was fighting to save the valley of the lower Colorado from flood disaster, planned to keep the Senate in session until Sunday in a determined effort to bring the measure to a decision.

Pitted against the California Senator in the endurance test made possible under the rules of the Senate was Senator Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona, who likewise declared he was willing to go without sleep or a square meal to defeat the legislation.

Nurses discover a "miracle cream"

brings new skin beauty—quickly

If you want a softer, finer, lovelier complexion, try this new kind of beauty cream that was started on the road to fame by trained nurses.

Doctors first prescribed it for chapped hands, burns, eczema and other skin troubles. Nurses noticed how it made roughened, irritated skins smooth and beautiful, and tried it on their own faces as a powder base and as a massage at night. Their complexions became clearer, healthier, lovelier than they had dreamed possible. Largely through their recommendations, Noxzema Skin Cream has become almost overnight one of America's most popular toilet creams.

Beauty experts say that most complexions would be beautiful were it not for common skin flaws. Noxzema Cream beautifies by correcting just those beauty-destroying faults that have been preventing your complexion from being lovely.

Snow-white and dainty as the finest toilet cream, but wonderfully healing, it sinks deep below the surface, cleanses the pores, heals away every tiny skin flaw, and acts as a tonic, refreshing and stimulating so that the skin glows with renewed vitality, health and beauty.

You don't have to wait long for results with Noxzema; the instant you put it on you can "feel it heal", and then you just watch your mirror for the ever-growing loveliness that it brings.

Make This Test

Get a 25c trial jar of Noxzema for 10c this week, use it for ten days, and see the great improvement it makes in the beauty of your complexion. On sale at all drug and department stores.

LARGE PORES BLEMISHES

Noxzema is healing and astringent, closes pores, refines skin, makes it velvety soft and smooth

DRY OR OILY SKIN

Noxzema corrects oiliness or dryness — restores skin to normal healthy beauty

SUNBURN CHAFING

Noxzema stops pain and smarting instantly — it is wonderfully soothing and healing.

25c Introductory Jar—10c

For those who have never tried Noxzema Skin Cream

Stop at the nearest drug or department store listed and get a jar of this famous skin cream. See for yourself how it refines and beautifies.

POSTAL VETOES OVERRIDDEN BY CONGRESS

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The Senate overrode the President's veto of the bill to increase the night wages of postal employes today by a 70 to 8 vote. The House had already passed the bill over the veto. The measure automatically became law by the vote.

Having completed action on the first of the 14 vetoes sent to Congress by President Coolidge, the Senate turned to the other postal bill vetoed, giving fourth class postmasters allowance on account of rent and fuel, and little time was vested to override the veto on that bill, it being enacted into law by a vote of 63 to 17.

The Senate then turned to a third veto message, that on the Oddie bill, authorizing $10,500,000 for construction of roads in public domain and Indians reservation lands.

All of the nine supporting veto were Republicans. They were: Bingham, Connecticut; Curtis, Kansas; Gillett, Massachusetts; Greene, Vermont; Metcalf, Rhode Island; Phipps, Colorado; Smoot, Utah; Steiwer, Oregon, and Warren, Wyoming.

HARVARD IS NOW SEEKING JUDGE

Concord, N. H., May 24 (AP)—Justice Oliver W. Branch of the New Hampshire Supreme Court, has been offered an appointment as research professor of Criminal law at Harvard Law School by Dean Roscoe Pound. He has not indicated whether he will accept.

Justice Branch, a native of New York, received his A.B. degree at Harvard in 1902. He was graduated from the law school in 1904. His term expires in 1929 under the age limit.

BANK ROBBERS SLAY 2; ESCAPE WITH $200,000

Lamar, Colo., May 24 (AP)—After killing two officials of the First National Bank of Lamar, four robbers today were hiding somewhere along the Colorado-New Mexico border with $200,000 cash and negotiable securities.

They killed John Parris, cashier, and his father, A. N. Parrish, president, in a gun battle. The first shot of young Parris wounded one of the four, but the latter missed and fell with a bullwtin in his head. The bullet pierced his son's heart.

Scooping up $7000 in currency and $195,000 in securities, the robbers forced two tellers into an auto and escaped. One of the tellers was released, but the fate of the other is unknown.

CHILEAN MINISTER TO PARAGUAY HURT IN DUEL

Asuncion, Paraguay, May 24 (AP)—Gonzalo Montt, Chilean minister to Paraguay, and Lieut.-Colonel Recabarren, Peruvian military attache here, fought a duel in the suburb of Pilcomayo today, both of them being wounded.

The men used sabers. Senor Montt was cut on the neck, head and shoulder while Colonel Recabarren was wounded in the knee. The two men quarreled over an article published by Colonel Recabarren concerning a reception held by Senor Montt to celebrate the anniversary of the battle of Iquique in the war between Chile and Peru in 1879.

MARX CABINET WILL FIGHT AS NEW REICHSTAG MEETS

Berlin, May 24 (AP)—The Marx Cabinet will remain in office until the day before the reassembling of the Reichstag and will then tender its resignation to President Von Hindenburg. It is now proposed that the new Reichstag elected May 20 convene June 12. The decision to remain in office until then was reached at meeting at which Chancellor Marx presided, with the full assent of President Von Hindenburg.

SAYS SHE GAVE MAN $90,000 WORTH OF LOVE

New York, May 24 (INS)—Letters expressing an old man's love for another's young wife form the basis of "heart balm" suit, by means of which Mrs. Mariana Wagner hopes to obtain $90,000 of the $6,000,000 fortune left by Fritz Achelis, president of the American Hard Rubber Company.

Mrs. Wagner, now 33, says in her 16-page bill of particulars that Achelis fitted up a secret bower in his New York offices, and there they met daily for three years—from 1921, shortly after she met the aged magnate, until December of 1924, when he died at the age of 85.

"After I met him he hinted he was in love with me, but because I was married he made no open declarations," she states in her action which will come before a supreme court jury.

COMFORTED HIM DAILY

"He emade a proposition to place myself under his wing and bestow upon him my love and affection. I went to his office daily and passed from two to three hours with him in a private compartment. I read to him, comforted him, encouraged him."

Her attorneys filed 70 letters in court with the plaintiff's bill of particulars. They are said to include such messages as these:

"Take this money, Mariana, dear, and go to the dentist. Get your teeth all fixed up, pet, and don't tell the dentist that a rich man's paying the bill. . . . He'll charge a lot more."

"Oh, how vavant is this room of ours today; how I wish you were here, my sweetheart. Best love and kisses."

HUSBAND DOESN'T KNOW

Mrs. Wagner lives with her three children. Her husband, who has been an inmate of a Pennsylvania sanitarium many years, does not yet know of the role his young wife played in the twilight years of the millionaire's life.

The plaintiff contends Achelis gave her $300 monthly for support of her daughters and herself and promised to include a trust fund for the Wagners in his will. She says the remittances ceased a few months after his death.

The rubber manufacturer's wife died before Achelis met the bobbed-haired Mrs. Wagner. He left most of his fortune to his two daughters, and also bequeathed generous amounts to charities and veteran employes.

MAGRUDER IS KEPT WAITING

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Secretary Wilbur has declined to throw any light on the future status of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who was removed last November from command of the Philadelphia Navy Yard following differences with the department concerning policy matters.

Admiral Magruder is at present on the "waiting-orders" list and Secretary Wilbur replied merely "know knows" when asked if the officer soon would be given another command equal to his rank. It has been indicated at the department that Magruder may remain in his present status until November 23, 1931, when he reaches the retirement age of 64.

The admiral ranks 15th in point of service among the 57 admirals. His highest command was that of the light cruiser division of the scouting fleet. He continues to draw full pay while awaiting a new assignment.

POLICE SEEK BOYS IN NORTH END BURGLARY

Cigarettes, fountain pens and other small articles valued at about $100 were stolen from the Armstrong Company, 99 Beverly st., North End, today. The character of the loot leads police to believe the burglary was the work of boys. Entrance was gained through a skylight in the roof of the five-story building occupied by the company. Two small safes which had been left open and contained nothing of value were ransacked, but four larger safes, locked, were untouched.

PLENTY OF ROOM AT N. Y. FOR 21,600,000 IN 1965

New York, May 24 (AP)—New York may seem crowded to some folks, but apparently there still is plenty of room. A report of a survey by the regional plan estimates the population of the city and adjacent territory will have increased by 1965 from less than 9,000,000 to 21,000,000, but that there will be four times as much land as it will then need for industrial sites and three times as much waterfront as will be needed for wharfage. The Bronx and East River waterfronts were pointed out as best for wharfage development and neighboring New Jersey as best for industrial sites.

BREMEN FLIERS WILL SAIL TOGETHER JUNE 9

Quebec, Que., May 24 (AP)—Their tour of the United States and Canada ended, Major Fitzmaurice, Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld of the Atlantic flier Bremen today turned their faces toward New York and home. They sail from New York either for Ireland or Germany, June 9.

Whatever their destination when they leave New York they will go together.

"I don't know if it will be Dublin or Berlin," the German Baron said. "If the choice is Dublin we will stay there with Fitzmaurice, and if it is Berlin, our Irish companion will accompany us."

READING COMMITTEE REPORT DUE MONDAY

The Reading investigating committee met in executive session at the State House today. It is understood the committee's report on the probe of Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading's conduct in office will be ready to be submitted in the House of Representatives Monday.

1¢ SALE

To introduce this wonderful new, health food-drink, your grocer will give you—with any size can of Toddy purchased at his regular price—a sanitary, crackle-glass "KANTLEAK" shaker, for only one cent.

Act quickly—your grocer has only a limited supply of these shakers, and this offer is good only while they last.

Had your TODDY to-day?

THIS SHAKER is the best and most practical made. Actual size, 9½ inches; holds 3 tall glasses of rich, creamy Toddy; does not leak or splash while shaking; mixes Toddy perfectly and quickly.

Get this new health habit. Here at last is the ideal food and drink for everyone. Delicious, bubbling over with health and strength for weary muscles—highly nutritious, yet so easily digested and quickly assimilated you feel new energy almost instantly. Stimulates mental and physical activity through proper nourishment.

"A meal in a glass." This delightful new taste treat is so well balanced it supplies all the vital elements the body needs for health and vigor; it is the safe and sane food drink that is replacing coffee, tea and cocoa in millions of homes.

Keeps kiddies healthy and happy. Many foods eaten by older folks are not good for children.

Babies and children need energy food. Mothers know that children cannot develop the physical ability to meet the combat of life successfully unless they drink plenty of milk to keep them mentally and physically fit. But most children don't like milk and won't drink the quantity that growing children must have.

Just add a little Toddy to their milk and see how they thrive on it, for Toddy adds its own nutritive and digestive qualities to milk. You don't have to coax kiddies or grown-ups to drink it, for everybody loves milk when mixed with Toddy hot or cold.

Changing America's Drinking Habits

You will get a thrill shaking a bubbling, foaming Toddy in a real shaker!

It's great fun—the latest craze—everybody's doing it—a health habit that's taking the country by storm.

Get one of these shakers today and join the army of Toddy drinkers. In a few seconds you can shake up the most wholesome, nutritious and delicious drink you ever tasted.

Dealers

If you have not yet received your allotment of these shakers, drop a card or phone M. L. MACK, 1200 Commonwealth Ave., Allston, Mass. Aspinwall 8176.

TODDY is not fattening

Because of similarity in appearance, Toddy is often confused with malted milk preparations. These are made by drying malted fluid milk, including the butter fats, to a powder. This powder is sold for mixing with fluid whole milk. But whole milk alone contains sufficient butter fats, without adding the butter fats of malted milk.

Toddy contains no milk butter fats, for we believe that the average diet supplies more fat than the body needs. Too much fat tends to make one too fleshy, and in children is even likely to cause serious digestive troubles. The average diet, however, usually lacks some or all of the following vital elements contained in Toddy; vitamins, enzymes, milk protein, milk sugar, maltose, dextrose, lime and calcium. This lack may dim the vital spark and set up conditions in the body which cause weakness, lack of ambition, incapacity and premature old age.

You can avoid all danger of diet deficiencies by balancing your diet with Toddy, which supplies all the elements the body needs for complete health and vigor.

Growing children—and all who need building up—should mix Toddy with whole milk; this supplies the proper proportion of butter fats needed by growing bodies.

How to Reduce Weight

If you do not want additional weight, always mix Toddy with milk after pouring off the cream. It will be just as delicious and supply all the necessary elements—without the weight-making milk butter fats. Write for FREE folder showing how to reduce or gain weight. With it we will send recipes for delicious candies, cakes, icings, etc.

Hid $17,000 Where He Was Advised to and Now It Isn't There

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Thomas Barnett, 75-year-old hermit, has reported the theft of $17,000 in new $1000 bills from a hiding place near his home. The thief, or thieves failing to find $17,000 additional that had been secreted by the old man.

Barnett took the money from a bank recently when he became involved in litigation. He said he placed the $17,000 in a milk bottle and sank it in a shaft of terra cotta pipe on the advice of friends. Four friends and acquaintances are being held for investigation.

About five years ago Barnetts home was invaded by a negro who demanded $12,500 that was in his house, but he put up such a battle that the thief was glad to leave empty-handed.

GIVE 'DESERTER' HONOR AFTER 63 YEARS' SHAME

Marlboro, May 24 (INS)—The weeds have grown uncut on a grave here for 52 years possessed by which rested the remains of a Union soldier; Memorial Days have come and gone, but no one has bothered to give a thought to the man who was buried in the weed-covered plot.

John Brady's grave will be decorated this Memorial Day for the first time in 52 years, and for the first time in 63 years people will speak well of the man whom for years they have accused of deserting from the Union ranks.

Commander Floyd Skinner of the Marlboro Post, American Legion, stated today the stigma of desertion upon the name of John Brady that followed him into the grave in 1876 had finally been lifted.

GIRL SAVES HONOR.

An announcement of the War Department recently cleared the name of the Marlboro man and as a result the grave will receive its just due.

An inquiry, started by a niece of Brady, Bessie C. Moss, World War nurse from Antioch, Cal., resulted in announcement by the War Department that some horrible mistake had been the cause of the curse of desertion that lived while its victim lived, but which refused to die when he died.

Brady, a Boston lad, sought in 1863 to enlist, but on account of his youth was refused time after time. He was 14. In 1865, just before the surrender of Lee, Brady was accepted in Boston and sent to the front. He fought in the closing skirmishes on the Virginia front.

"ONLY ONE WHO QUIT."

Then demobilization, and in the excitement of peace Brady joined another Union regiment. This regiment was composed of Marlboro men. He returned to this town after the war with that regiment, and after him came the story of his "desertion."

It was impossible to disprove it. Comrades were separated, government records were in chaos. The story was here when Brady died in 1876.

The War Department stated the only Brady who deserted from the Union forces had enlisted in the South.

"Properly Broken In"

May 9, 1924.

Mr. H. N. Ganser, Manager,
The Counties Gas and Electric Company,
Norristown, Pa.

My dear Mr. Ganser:

Thank you for your good letter of May 8. As you say, doubtless Mr. Staples meant merely a closer cooperation between men of the various utilities in a locality rather than unity of action in the matter of trench digging when he talked at our annual meeting the other day. I do not think, in the circumstances, his remarks were misinterpreted even though some of the newspaper accounts were such as to render the reader prone to misconstrue the exact meaning. However, I do not think there will be any untoward development in consequence.

You certainly have the editor of the Norristown Register properly broken in on his job. Of course, your own early journalistic training, together with your understanding of the true meaning of public relations, undoubtedly had much to do with making your editorial friend see the true light.

The North Penn Review comes under the head, pertinacious and persistent journalism. I think we would have to pay more attention to its editorial shots if it were more subtle in its manoeuvring. I do not know what has happened to bring about the condition, but it seems that our friends who offended the North Penn Review are beginning to practice diplomacy in the field of their endeavors. If they improve along such lines, it will be "a consumation devoutly to be wished".

With sincere personal regards,
Yours very truly,

R. H. [illegible]
Director.

THIS letter, now an official Government document, shows the successful propaganda activities of Maj. J. S. S. Richardson in another direction, while he was running the State propaganda and lobby organization of the utility companies in Pennsylvania.

Here the genial major is congratulating H. H. Ganser, the manager of the Counties Gas & Electric Company of Norristown, for having "properly broken in" the editor of the Norristown Register.

Mr. Richardson congratulates Mr. Ganser for controlling the editor of his local paper in the following words:

"You certainly have the editor of the Norristown Register properly broken in on his job. Of course, your own early journalistic training, together with your understanding of the true meaning of public relations, undoubtedly had much to do with making your editorial friend see the true light. The North Penn Review comes under the head, pertinacious and persistent journalism."

On November 5, 1926, the record shows that Richardson received a letter from L. N. Yetter, president of the New Jersey Gas Association, giving Richardson the names of three New Jersey newspapers whose publishers had expressed themselves as ready to print editorials furnished by Richardson's bureau.

Richardson is now working along the same lines in a wider field of endeavor as director of the National Power Lobby formed to defeat the Boulder Dam bill.

LAST OF LONDON "QUEEN'S" NIGHT CLUBS ARE RAIDED

London, May 24 (AP)—Scotland Yard detectives early today raided and closed two of the best known London night clubs, both owned by Mrs. Kate Merrick, "Queen of the Night Clubs," mother-in-law of Lord De Clifford and prospective mother-in-law of the Earl of Kilmorey. The clubs raided were the Forty-Three Club and the Manhattan, largely patronized by fashionable people and known to many American tourists.

The names and addresses of those present were taken, but nobody was arrested. Mrs. Merrick was questioned. The grounds for the raids were not divulged. The Silver Slipper Club, raided and closed several weeks ago, and the two raided today were the last operated by Mrs. Merrick in London.

SCORES OF FUNERALS HELD FOR MINE BLAST VICTIMS

Mather, Pa., May 24 (AP)—Scores of individual funerals were held in Mather and nearby towns today for victims of the mine disaster which claimed more than 190 lives. Virtually all of the 164 bodies brought from the mine had been buried today, funerals being held during the morning for the victims brought out yesterday. Officials of the Pickands-Mather Collieries Company said it would assume all funeral expenses and had requested the State Compensation Board to rush compensation awards to the families.

JAPAN TO APPROVE KELLOGG PEACE PLAN

Tokyo, May 24 (AP)—Japan's reply to Secretary Kellogg's proposal of a treaty to outlaw war, while it has been informally approved already, will come before the Cabinet tomorrow. At that time formal approval will be given, and then it will go to the Emperor for his sanction. It will probably be handed to Ambassador Charles MacVeagh tomorrow afternoon.

FIRE ATOP CAR SCARES SCORE

Fire on the roof of a trolley car drove a score of passengers, mostly women, into the rain today and tied up traffic for 15 minutes in Arsenal sq., Cambridge, near the subway entrance.

Crossing of wires near the trolley socket caused the blaze, according to firemen. The car was inbound for Harvard sq. from Waverley.

While firemen were attacking the flames apparatus blocked Massachusetts ave.

MELLON SCORES TAX PUBLICITY

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Secretary Mellon said today that the Treasury Department was strongly opposed to the income tax publicity provision in the pending tax reduction bill. He believes that this provision will yet be stricken out. The greatest objection to the publicity section, he said, was that it would expose private business affairs to the scrutiny of competitors and curiosity seekers. "No civilized country publishes the private affairs of its citizens and no good can come of such publicity," he added.

A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1928

SECOND SECTION

A Story of Gay Life and a Battle of Hearts

Gay Leonard, spoiled darling of fortune, is loved by Alan Pomeroy, a worthwhile athletic young man. She is fascinated, however, by Jerry Davis of questionable reputation. To get her away from him her family takes her on an eight months' trip. Meanwhile she thinks only of Jerry. She is jealous of Dolly Quinn, whom he has met in a cabaret where Dolly has taken a job as hostess to earn extra money for art lessons. While Gay is away Jerry falls in love with Dolly and tells her so, but she does not care for him in that way. Through Nick Standish, a newspaper man, she is selected to enter a beauty contest. Jerry protests in vain. Gay comes back and is a guest at a lively house party nearby. Mrs. Matthews, her hostess, admits that she would like to see Gay marry Alan. She confesses she loves Jerry. During the evening's festivities Alan tries to get her to go outdoors. She refuses. She learns that Dolly Quinn is in the beauty contest and makes up her mind that she must see it—so she and Alan remain as guests of the Matthews Dolly, chaperoned by Mrs. Minafee, her boarding-house keeper, and Nick Standish, has an exciting time preparing for the beauty pageant. Gay, determined to find out how Jerry regards Dolly, makes a point of going to her table. Mrs. Minafee tells Gay that Jerry wants to marry Dolly. Gay, mad with jealousy, realizes she has lost Jerry and goes to the beach with Alan.

(NOW GO ON WITH STORY)

CHAPTER 22

GAY became very merry. She talked a great deal and feverishly fast. She laughed at everything and nothing. She flirted violently with Alan, and even with Ted.

There was a kind of desperate recklessness in her gayety; there was a challenge. "See?" it cried to Dolly Quinn. "I don't care! I'm happy! Don't for one instant imagine you have hurt me. Watch. See how easily I hold these men? I could take him from you as easily, if I wanted to."

And all the while the whole strength of her mind braced itself against the door of realization until not only mind but body felt bruised and strained with the effort. "Don't think about it yet! Think about something else!" Irene. Ted. Alan. The commotion in the dining room. The diners round about. The waiter who looked like Hamlet. The cigarette girl's carved ankles. The food. Things to say. Things said. Anything. . . .

So through the endless, meaningless meal she postponed the facing of the fact that Jerry Davis, never so loved as now, was lost to her.

It was late when they finished dinner. Night had spread a plum-colored canopy over the world, and nailed it with silver stars. The ocean slept, breathing long sibilant breaths. "Sh-h-h-h!" it sighed. And then sucked its breath in deep and sighed again. "Sh-h-h-h!"

They stood on the pavement beside the hotel, waiting for the chauffeur to bring the car to the curb. Gay stood with her arms folded over her breast, hugging her white wrap about her. Its immense ruff collar arched high at the back of her spruce yellow head.

"You look," said Alan, "like a calla lily."

The air was softly cool. She turned her face toward the sea, toward the little fan of the wind. Her lips tasted salt.

"Rene."

"Yes, dear?"

"I don't want to go to the dog-gone party."

"No? But we promised Norma. She's counting on us."

"I'll get tight," Gay threatened rebelliously.

They all smiled indulgent smiles. "You mustn't," Irene said. Not at Norma's. Her mother and father are visiting her. They're good scouts—but not that good. Of course you wouldn't anyway," she supplemented.

"But I would! I feel exactly like it!" Noting the quizzical shafts of all their eyes, Gay baited uncertainly. "Or something rash," she went on. "This is the kind of a night when something rash just has to be done." "It's a great night, all right," Ted affirmed, sniffing.

"Wonderful!" Softly, with no glance on Gay, Alan quoted her "Starlight, and the sound of surf."

She thought, "He loves me, poor Alan. And I love Jerry. And Jerry loves that little moron—"

She sugged aloud, suddenly and sharply.

"I was thinking of a nursery rhyme," she said, when interrogated. "You know, the one that goes 'The farmer takes his wife, the wife takes the child, the child takes the nurse—' Or didn't the child take the nurse? The child took somebody. And it wasn't the same person who took the child, that's the point."

"Gay," said Irene sadly, "you're gibbering."

"I know it. I'll stop."

The limousine purred up to the

AUTO SAFETY 'DON'TS' URGED BY GOODWIN

By Frank A. Goodwin

Highway Safety Editor Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

There is a persisten tnote running through many letters received by the highway safety editor that will not down and that is the resentment shown by the mothers against some motorists.

While the mothers of New England are entering into the spirit of the Mothers' Safety Don'ts contest being conducted by the Boston Evening American, and realize the necessity for constant preaching to their children, they cannot lose sight of the fact that the motorists are more to blame than the pedestrians.

The following letter from Mrs. K. G. Storm, 80 Gordon st., Brighton, is typical of mothers that express this sentiment:

Mrs. Storm showed the originality of sending with her 10 Mothers' Safety Don'ts for children a code of don'ts for motorists which should be read and memorized by every operator of a motor vehicle.

Mrs. Storm's letter reads:

"I have three girls, ages 7, 15 and 17 years. I feel that I have done my

Boston to Have New Stock Exchange

Boston is to have a new stock exchange, opening around June 1 at 2 Merchants row. It will be known as the Boston Securities Exchange.

According to announcement, its "object shall be to furnish exchange rooms and other facilities for the convenient transaction of their business by its members, to maintain high standards of commercial honor and integrity among its members, and to promote and inculcate just and equitable principles of trade and business."

It is stated all applicants for membership and all listings of securities must meet all the requirements and standards of boards and commissions organized or appointed under the laws of Massachusetts; attempting to protect the public from misrepresentation, fraud and deceit.

The officers are James W. Nourbourn, Somerville, president; Theodore Kantor, Back Bay, vice-president; John F. Keen, Lynn, treasurer; Roger A. Lutz, Brighton, secretary. The trustees include the officers named and Joseph A. Boyle of Revere.

DOOMED BY RADIUM, SHE WILL SAVE OTHERS

New York, May 24—Doomed to death by the spread of the dread infection, a young New Jersey girl has offered her body to science, to be used in attempting to find a cure for radium poisoning.

The girl, Grace Fryer, one of five women similarly poisoned and now fighting for compensation from a radium company, made her offer, she said, that other men and women throughout the world may possibly be spared her torture.

Until she dies from the poison, Miss Fryer is willing that specialists and scientists making a study of the malady, use her for experiments.

The heroic offer of sacrifice by Miss Fryer was revealed by another of the five victims, Mrs. Edna Hussman of 50 Buchanan st., Hillside, N. J., whose own body is wasting from the poison contracted while painting watch dials in the Orange, N. J., plant of the United States Radium Corporation.

Grace Fryer then admitted having made her offer, declaring that she had not made it public because she did not wish her friends to be [illegible] dramatic.

"What difference does it make?" she said. "Our lives are slipping fast. It is only a question of time anyway, and I might as well be of use while I can."

Fourteen former employes of the factory in which the luckless women worked have died thus far from the same malady, it is revealed in the suit brought by Miss Fryer and her four companions against the concern.

Through the suit they hope to be compensated sufficiently to keep them and their families out of want until the end comes.

FLOOD LIGHT FOR AIRPORT

A flood light for sliding fliers to land at night at the Boston Airport is now in place and tests will be made as soon as the weather clears.

Installation of the light, a 500-watt one, is due to the generosity of Chandler Hovey. Its purpose is to flood-light the runways.

Other improvements are also credited to Hovey. These include lengthening of the north-south runway, formerly known as the "short runway," by 200 feet, making it equal in length to the other.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SUSPECT HELD

After a search which started last Saturday night, when Miss Helena Murphy of Oakwood st., Dorchester, was knocked down by a hit-and-run driver who later collided with another machine, William Benson, 32, of Northam pk., Dorchester, was arrested today.

He was taken into custody by Special Officers John McPherson and Terence McManus, on four warrants, two charging going away without making known his identity, and two driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public.

In Dorchester court Benson pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to June 15, with bail of $500 imposed.

FAKE CHANNEL SWIMMER SORRY "SHE'S AN IDIOT"

London, May 24 (AP)—Dr. Dorothy Cochrane Logan, who, under the name of Nona McLellan, faked a Channel swim, has been reproved by the profession with a warning. She told the general medical council she was sorry she had been "such an idiot."

'FIGHT DEATH WITH ME!'

Grace Fryer, one of the five women doomed to die from radium poisoning contracted by moistening with her tongue brushes with which they painted the dials of clocks, has offered her body to science so experiments may be made to save others so poisoned.

GIRL'S GREATEST APPEAL DECIDED

Every girl in screenland *must have smooth skin

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Beauty and charm of feature are not enough in the movie world! In addition every screen actress must have flawless skin, say the leading film directors. As Howard Bretherton, director for Warner films, says: "Studio Skin' is the outstanding factor in screen success today."

That is why the care of her skin is of first importance to every actress in Hollywood. Nine out of ten film stars are using Lux Toilet Soap. This new soap is made by the celebrated method France uses for her finest soap and leaves the skin with the same feeling of velvety smoothness. Lois Wilson, Columbia star, says, "The satin-smooth skin the close-up reveals is something the cleverest make-up can't fake. Lux Toilet Soap is wonderful for it. I'm delighted with it."

All the big studios have placed Lux Toilet Soap in their dressing rooms as the official soap, which clearly indicates the value they place on a smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is manufactured by Lever Bros. Co., at Cambridge, Mass.

YOUNGER SET ALL ENTHUSED OVER OLYMPIC FUND BOUTS MONDAY NIGHT, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Boxing and Wrestling Matches to Be Staged in Ballroom of the Hotel Copley-Plaza

STATELY LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE old school may not, of course, be wildly enthusiastic about next Monday's boxing fiesta at the Hotel Copley-Plaza, or be seen there in any numbers occupying choice "ringside" places, even though the occasion shines with the all-enveloping "in-aid-of" aura. Approval by the Victorians may be lukewarm. It may even be entirely lacking. But the Moderns will be out in force, those up and coming ones who like nothing so much as setting up new signposts along the social entertainment paths. They will be out en masse.

A GLEAMING REPRESENTATION OF THE upper crust; glittering jewels; formal raiment; smoke wreaths rising to the pearl and gold ceiling that spans the Copley-Plaza's handsome ballroom; society on its gilt chairs, enthralled with the battle spectacle. I wager Bostonians of the superior sets are in for something entirely novel in their own ballwick—professional boxing and wrestling done with all the la de dah accompaniment usually reserved for polite benefits and elaborately done debutante balls.

MISS LOUISE FESSENDEN manager in chief, is being deluged with requests for reservations. The idea has caught on tremendously. Mrs. Robert Knowles, Augustus F. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington R. Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Felton, 3d; the Henry C. Everetts, Jr.; the George Peabody Gardners, Jr., are some of the glittering names already inscribed on the list. Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Church, Jr., Mrs. Charles E. Ware, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, Mrs. Chandler Hovey, Nathaniel Ayer and Mrs. George Wightman are others.

GEORGE WIGHTMAN IS Miss Fessenden's able lieutenant in the making of arrangements. In fact his is the more arduous duty, since tickets are practically selling themselves, and Mr. Wightman has in charge all the details of bouts, wrestlers, boxers and so on. A "card" most interesting is being arranged. Leon Burbank is to be referee for the wrestling match wherein "Bull" Komar and George McLeod each puts his strength and knowledge of the ancient art against the other.

AND YOUR ARDENT RINGside fan, carefully posted on important affairs concerning the squared circle, is well aware that McLeod meets "Strangler" Lewis this evening for the wrestling championship of the world. For the boxing bouts, five entries in the 118-pound class and four in the 135-pound class are already in, so an interesting and amusing evening is promised the ladies and gentlemen who have snapped up tickets. And thus will be started on its way into the Olympic fund a goodly stream of dollars, that American Olympians may be on hand at Amsterdam this summer to uphold the prestige of the Stars and Stripes against the world.

PHILIPS KETCHUM AND his bride are taking the transatlantic honeymoon route, sailing this week from New York for some three months away. Fortunately, so the fashionables concur, the Ketchum-Amory alliance is not one of the several intercity sort recently made that will lose to Boston the former Miss Margot Amory now that she is a matron. Mr. Ketchum's professional interests are here, so the new establishment when it is set up will be a local one, with a tall and handsome chatelaine to do its honors.

SINCE THEY HAVE AN EXTENSIVE country estate in Weston and an enormous house, the John Bryant Paines are extraordinarily well favored when it comes to entertaining at dance or coming-out for a debutante daughter. Any such affair may be done in the pleasantest of surroundings. Friday's house dance for Miss Julia Paine, but of the current season now closing, goes on in the spacious manor house, with its broad halls and its wide-flung apartments. And as for floral decorations, there is a question that need never bother any member of the Paine household. Nor do they need ever resort to a flower shop for roses, violets, orchids, chrysanthemums, or whatever else is desired.

BECAUSE, RIGHT ON THE estate, is greenhouse after greenhouse fairly bursting with every known variety of native or tropical flower and plant. And when a party is afoot for one of the Paine young ladies the gardeners, all old family retainers, love nothing so much as making the house beautiful with a wealth of whatever blossome may be abloom at the time. Miss Julia's party is a springtime affair, so all the beauties of the season will be utilized. Miss Anna Dickson, daughter of the Brenton Dicksons, shares the limelight with Miss Paine, just as she did at the formal coming-out dance last autumn.

AIDING SHOW

Miss Louise Fessenden is in charge of tickets for the boxing exhibition Monday for the Olympic fund. The younger element in Boston's smart set is backing the venture to the limit.

exploding in city streets?

When a plane goes wrong, parachutes carry passengers safely to earth. This column suggested, two or three years ago, that one big parachute might save a falling plane with all its passengers, making individual parachute jumping unnecessary.

Yesterday at Tracy, California, the thing was done. Pilot McKeon stopped his engine 2200 feet up, released a small parachute which then released a big parachute, of "bi-plane" type, with a silk canopy seventy-two feet wide.

This super-parachute let the plane float slowly to earth with little damage to the ship, none to the pilot.

One blast, one underground explosion, one cave-in kill miners in West Virginia, Kentucky and Nevada. And hope has been abandoned for more than one hundred miners in the Mather mine in Pennsylvania.

Plans for the dinner and reception in honor of James J. Phelan, well-known Boston financier, to be given by his numerous friends in the city at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, Saturday, June 2, at 7 p. m., were formulated at a meeting of the general committee at the Parker House yesterday.

Mr. Phelan, accompanied by Mrs. Phelan, is now returning to Boston after a European tour which brought new honors to the distinguished Bostonian, including a personal audience granted by Pope Pius XI at the Vatican in Rome, and an official reception by President Cosgrave and government officials of the Irish Free State.

He is due for a single personal appearance at the Washington Street and Scollay Square Olympia theaters, tomorrow evening, where his latest film comedy, "Vamping Venus," is being shown. His will tell the audiences something about picture-making in Hollywood, and will, if time permits, do a turn of his own. The popular comedian is a former Bostonian and will visit members of his family who are now residing here. While in town, he will visit the mayor and the governor, and will also pay his respects to his old friend, Superintendent of Police Crowley.

Presence of the slag first became known when the John E. Dyer Construction Co. workmen sought to drive 16 piles for the building foundation. A few feet below the surface the iron slag was encountered and through it the piles could not be driven.

Between 15 and 20 tons of slag have been removed. The slag extends to a depth of 16 feet and below it there is water. A search of city records by Superintendent of Public Buildings John R. ## SLATTERY IS OUT AS BRAVES MANAGER dinary results in St. Louis and New York.

Hornsby had intended to hold a morning practice season, but rain foiled his plans. When the club's turns home a week from today for a month's stay at the Tenn it is expected morning practice will be a daily item in the life of the players.

The Rajah, according to all accounts, had no desire to assume the managerial duties, but now that he has accepted the berth, he apparently intends to leave no stone unturned in an effort to put the team in the thick of the National League pennant fight.

The sudden shift that removed Jack Slattery and put the famous Hornsby on the job has the whole baseball world by the ears. Boston fans have been whispering ever since Slattery was fired in Boston, just before the season opened.

There have been stories of dissension between Slattery and manager and Hornsby, who led the St. Louis Cards to a world title in 2- was traded to the New York Giants after that scrap in 1926, who came to the Braves last winter in the most startling deal baseball has known.

ROGERS NAMED

The sad experience of the Braves this spring made the task of Slattery almost impossible. The club had gathered in Hornsby, after "Stats" was named manager. There was the usual talk of trouble on the Giants that made such a deal possible. As soon as the trade was made, the boys began talking about Hornsby as Brave manager.

Any possibility of such a change was vigorously denied by the Braves officials, Hornsby and Manager Slattery. All was well and happy when the team took a series from the Yankees at the St. Petersburg training camp.

The owners thought they had finally tossed together a real ball club. The expensive new stands at Braves Field would be paid for quickly, if the team did anything in the early part of the campaign.

Then the Braves lost a whole series to the Brooklyn Dodgers in the South. That started more rumors. When Jack Slattery was called to Boston from Toledo, three days before the season opened, it was quite generally believed that a managerial transfer was in order.

But "Stats" went back to his club and brought the team to New York for the opener. Then disaster camped on his trail. Flu knocked the pitching staff apart. Greenfield and Smith, two of the best, were out of it. Richbourg, Farrell and Barnes, regulars, were victims of the epidemic. For three weeks the team staggered along.

It went West, with Slattery still convalescing. The story of that trip was sad. Twelve games were lost and only four won. The club heads decided that a managerial change would help.

Slattery's trial was short, but the club had invested heavily in players and park improvements, so the manager had to go. That's the long and short of it. The inside details are more or less shrouded in mystery, for Slattery has refused to say a word about the situation, and the club has given out just the usual statement.

Now Manager Hornsby has installed, from the time he joined the club, that he had no desire to manage. He claimed that playing and leading had almost wrecked him with the Cards, and that he would do no more managing until he had played his string out.

Judge Fuchs explains the Hornsby end of this new sensation, as follows:

"Mr. Adams and myself called Rogers into conference. We told him that a change had been decided upon, and that we wanted him to take charge. He was unwilling, in fact said, that he would prefer he be traded to some other club. He knew that the change would cause a lot of talk, and that he would be accused of various things.

"But he is under contract for three years with us. We persuaded him that a change would be made, and that it was up to him to manage if we decided that was for the best interests of the club.

"We have offered Jack Slattery a permanent, executive position with the club and hope that he will accept. Things broke badly for him this spring, and we are sure that he will benefit us and himself by remaining.

We have committed ourselves to a policy of spending no expense to get a real ball club here and feel that we are headed in the right direction, regardless of our unfortunate start.

Rogers Hornsby commented along similar lines.

"This is a tough job," he said this morning. "There will be all kinds of talk about undermining. But I'm used to that. I didn't want the job and had no idea of ever taking it when I came here. But I was under contract, and what could I do? Jack Slattery and I got along well, and I was more surprised than anybody in the world when this came up. That's flat, no matter what anybody says.

"Now that I am manager, I'll try to get in here and get the team rolling. We haven't had any the best of it so far and are due to get going. Playing and managing together is a tough combination proposition, but as things are, it's just up to me to go through and get all the results I know how."

SLATTERY SILENT

Manager Slattery was mum about his resignation. He has evidently decided to wait and get the situation under control before saying anything. He has not intimated whether or not he would remain with the Braves, or return to college coaching, in which branch of the game he was admittedly one of the country's best.

The Braves depart this afternoon at three for Brooklyn, where they play a four-game series, and then jump to Philadelphia for another bunch of games. They return to the Wigwam on June 1, to meet the western teams who treated them so harshly on the road.

Hornsby, now that he is manager will pick out his own board of strategy. He is dickering for a "Right Bee" and expects to earn his pay. Another candidate today. Arthur Devlin, who was Manager Slattery's scout worker, will probably go back to scouting, which was his job before he was called in last year to work on the bee line.

Jack Slattery was signed as manager last December, after Dave Bancroft, unsuccessful pilot for four years, had been traded to Brooklyn. Slattery was coaching Boston College but was released from his contract there for a shot at the big league end.

He had previously been highly successful at Tufts and Harvard, before developing an Eagle team that was right up with the best.

Hornsby was obtained from the Giants in January, the deal sending Francis Hogan, star catcher, and Jimmy Welsh to the McGraw team. Both have put the Giants up in the National League fight.

Amplifier to Be Used at I. C. 4 A Meet

Spectators at the I. C. Four A meet in the Harvard Stadium tomorrow and Saturday will be able to follow the announcing of the results better this year than in previous meets. An amplifier of a corner of six horns will be erected at the bowl end of the Stadium, the first time this has been done. Thus the spectators will be able to get the results regardless of which way the announcer is facing.

DEFENDING CHAMP PLAYS MRS. BUELL

By BILL GRIMES

With the field reduced to eight players, the third round of the Woman's Golf Association of Boston will be played today at the Weston Golf Club.

In the upper half of the draw Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., of Oakley, is playing Mrs. G. P. Buell, of Albemarle, and Miss Joyce Bigelow is pitted against Mrs. R. M. Gardiner, of Weston.

Mrs. Baker nosed out Mrs. J. D. Woodfin of Brae Burn, 1 up in the second round yesterday while Mrs. Buell eliminated Mrs. H. R. Watson, 3 to 2.

Miss Bigelow, who has played but little golf this spring put Mrs. W. G. Dow of Wellesley out of the running in a close match which ended on the 17th green.

Mrs. S. D. Waxman is playing with Miss Marion Brewer, last year's champion, who defeated Miss Theresa Winner 2 to 1, while Miss Brewer won a 3 and 1 decision over Mrs. W. J. Hadlen of Oakley.

In the lower half of the draw Mrs. W. C. Quinby of the Country Club defeated Lee Edmonds. Miss Edith Brooks 4 to 3, is playing against Miss Ruth Batchelder who was a finalist last year at Woodland.

Cadet Polo Team After College Title

Recent developments in the sport of polo at the United States Military Academy at West Point have attracted much more than usual attention to the team this year. The cadets will be entered in the national tournament, the championship of which they won at the West Point field in 1923, when Mrs. Payne Whitney's team defeated the Army team by a score of 9 goals to 8. The game was played in the presence of President Coolidge and a host of notables.

West Point this year finally won permission for the new field and grading work has already started on the site which is back of the cadet stadium, opposite the football stadium.

MR. BOSTON
By Jack Conway

"BASEBALL experts are handing Walter Gerber, 37-year-old shortstop, much of the credit for the fine showing of the Red Sox during the past couple of weeks," said Mr. Boston today. "Gerber has been playing baseball for 19 years, but can still show most of his rivals how in the national pastime.

"I'm going to let Gerber tell his own story of his remarkable baseball career.

"Walter Gerber [illegible] Rose:

"There is much I do not know about baseball, although I have played it [illegible] so that it is well to [illegible]

"I play ball hard when I get on the field. But everything you have in the ball game, but when I step forget it if. [illegible] has been a losing game. Keep yourself on baseball during the summer and on business during the winter, and try to mix them or you will fail in both. Save your money, so that on the day comes that you can't play ball any more, or don't want to, it will have something to depend upon [illegible]

"[illegible] tion with minor league ball players, doesn't remember [illegible] but the time when he didn't think baseball, where he was [illegible] and where he now makes his home after a residence of [illegible] to observe. But for a game [illegible] Louis, always has been a good baseball town, sending [illegible]

"[illegible] pool to go over every inch of the [illegible] ers in common knowledge always [illegible] and may be there and I [illegible] to beat the rugs. It [illegible] was a good trick when my mother [illegible] did make us do it. We used to [illegible] out of the house to play ball [illegible] and the kicking we got when we [illegible] got home didn't bother us in the least.

"'I STARTED out with the Columbus club in 1910 after playing amateur and semi-pro ball for a few years, at first getting on the bench for about 12 days I was released under option to Akron of the Ohio State League. What was termed by Ike Rehberg as a tryout pennant in Texas and I don't [illegible] on a pennant [illegible] since, though the Browns in 1922 finished only one game behind the Yankees.

"At the end of that first year with Akron I arrived home with exactly $4 in my pocket. Salaries were small in the minor leagues in those days and I had spent every penny I had earned. The $5 was my share of the pennant winning. We had to win two last games of the season with the Canton club to win the pennant, and before we went on the field I had promised Ike Rehberg we would win, or else I wouldn't be [illegible] to spend my $5 on a meal. Naturally I didn't have another dime to my name. I took the $5 home and bought a second cup when I got there.

"I went back to Akron the next year but was recalled by Columbus at the end of the season. I played with Columbus until September of 1914, when I was sold to the Pirates, then managed by Fred Clarke. My job was to take the place of Honus Wagner—and it was too big a job for me. Wagner's value was [illegible] to [illegible] for a sub from the bench. [illegible] went back to Columbus for next year and stayed there until 1917, when I went up to the Browns then managed by Fielder Jones.

"'THE second baseman then was Joe Gedeon, who had just been traded to the Browns by the Yankees. A fine boy, Joe—and a great ball player, with whom I found it easy and pleasant to work. But as you know, I got myself some bad news and went home in the middle of the game. I was out trying for the team, all was at [illegible] long of a letter telling me I would have been ballast [illegible]

"After several more [illegible] managers in St. Louis—Jones, Davey Jones, Fohl, George Sisler and Dan Howley—but never did get the full confidence of these managers had a hand in deciding not to [illegible] me a manager. In Bill Carrigan, however, he said he has found the ideal manager.

"'I've learned a lot since I've been with him,' Gerber said. 'I know now how he built up the great Red Sox team he had before he retired. Give him time and he will build up some more.'"

Seen at Biarritz Purchased in London Reproduced by Regal

OUR Style Scout saw this new model at Biarritz—the most fashionable watering place on the Continent. It was the most distinctive Sport Style worn at this "Playground of Royalty."

The valet of the titled Englishman who wore these shoes was proud of the fact that his Master's shoes were made by the best known maker of high grade shoes in England—and gave us the address.

This original sport model is made of Genuine White Buck trimmed with Black or brown Calfskin. It is known as "Ball Strap" pattern, which is useful as well as decorative, as it prevents the Buckskin vamp from spreading across the ball of the foot. The rough, sprungy light crepe rubber sole prevents slipping.

The Regal Reproduction follows the original model even in such small details as the Calfskin quarter lining, eyelets and the suede-lined tongue. The color combination and pattern are exactly the same, and the lasts are identical in measurement and appearance.

We purchased 36 pairs of the original English shoe so that we could show one genuine Biarritz model with our reproduction in 72 Regal stores from Coast to Coast. And we want you to compare these shoes in our windows today.

Whether you're a golfing nut, tennis fan or a yachting enthusiast, or simply want to put on a pair of white flannels and doll up for the Boardwalk or the Club Verandah, we have a wide variety of styles for your selection in the Greatest Sport Line of shoes in America.

Martha Lee Tells of Marmalade Rules

By MARTHA LEE

IF you keep two or three jars of guava jelly on your pantry shelf there are always delightful ways to serve it. For instance, if you have cooked lamb chops left over from dinner, simply put a spoonful of guava jelly on the top of each chop. It is a perfect accompaniment, and the jelly melts and shrinks with one tbsp of chopped mint leaves and with very thin shavings from ½ of an olive. This is to be served with roast lamb or duck.

To serve with roast beef or pork cut in dice and sprinkle with one tbsp of chopped parsley and ½ tbsp of fine-chopped onion and chop all together. With roast lamb or chicken add ½ glass of guava jelly to one c of brown gravy. Yum Yum.

Guava is delicious, too, with biscuits. Try cutting it in slices and serving in the center of hot buttered biscuits. And next time you are serving rice or chicken croquettes, make a little hollow in the top of each with a spoon and in it set a large spoon of guava jelly.

For salads cut the guava in slices and put them in the center of a slice of pineapple laid on a nest of lettuce leaves. This is especially delicious with a border of cream cheese either forced through a pastry tube or applied with a spoon. This salad is intended to be served with French dressing.

For sandwiches mash guava jelly with a fork, add half as much chopped nut meats and use between slices of day-old bread, cut thin and carefully buttered.

Another delicious combination is to spread an equal number of slices of bread with cream cheese, then put two slices together and cut in fancy shapes. A leaf of lettuce may be placed between two pieces of bread if desired.

For afternoon tea put a marshmallow on a small round cracker, make an impression in the center, put in a bit of butter and bake until puffed but not brown.

Then remove from the oven and fill the center of each marshmallow with a cube of guava jelly. Try guava, too, cut in dice and use as a filling for pastry tarts.

To use guava as a garnish, cut this firm, delicious jelly in slices and arrange on top of toasted chicken sandwiches and place another slice at one side of the sandwich on a lettuce leaf.

Orange marmalade is another indispensable in my pantry—especially the kind that is made from fancy, orient Indian River sweet oranges and wild Florida sour oranges blended with pure granulated sugar.

My family is very fond of this orange marmalade used in place of syrup on waffles, griddlecakes etc., or folded in the center of a firm omelet. Orange marmalade can be used in a salad, too, with delicious results.

First arrange your lettuce leaf on a plate with a ring of pineapple on the lettuce. Fill the hole in the center of the pineapple and cover the edges of the pineapple with the orange marmalade. Then place a teaspoon of cream cheese, mixed well with mayonnaise and top with a cherry.

For orange marmalade tarts, first prepare your pastry shells and fill them with orange marmalade. Then top them with cream cheese mixed with whipped cream or mayonnaise and place a cherry on top.

Of course you are all familiar with orange marmalade as a spread on hot biscuits, toast, or rolls, and as a filling for sandwiches mixed with equal proportions of cream cheese and mayonnaise.

Try thin slices of crumbled bacon added to the flavor of the sandwich filling. But I wonder if you've ever heard of orange marmalade cake? This is made by mixing orange marmalade with the juice of one lemon and some whipping cream.

Only a bottom crust is used and it is topped with a meringue. Try orange marmalade poured over vanilla ice cream as a sauce, or mix it with whipping cream and freeze it into a delightful frozen dessert in your electric refrigerator or melon mould. Faithfully yours,

MARTHA LEE.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We are two girls of eighteen and sixteen, respectively. We travel eight miles to a neighboring town each day. While there, we met a gentleman, whom we liked very much. We invited him to our house, and he came. Three young men, friends of my uncle, were visiting us at the time.

The next time he came, there were some other young men visiting us. We explained to him that they were my uncle's friends, but he refused to believe us. He has not visited us since, and when we meet him he is distant and cold.

Will you kindly tell us whether we should keep on inviting our friend to visit us? Do you think he really likes us, regardless of the fact that he will not come down? We thank you.

DAISY AND PANSY.

DO you think it is worth while bothering with a young man who accepts your hospitality, then repays it by being "distant and cold"? Are you sure he is cold? Or do you imagine it?

Be polite and friendly to him, but do not try to force the friendship. He may like you, yet feel he has not time to visit your home often.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 19. I went with a young man during the summer.

I grew to like him very much. We broke up before my return to me something he did that hurt my feelings.

I have met another young man who cares a lot for me. But I do not like him. He says I might like him some day.

Recently I met my former friend. He pleaded with me to come back to him. He says he will prove that my chum was wrong. If I go back to him I know the other young man will be hurt.

I do not want to break either of their hearts.

ONE WHO D LIKE TO KNOW.

YOU can't please everyone, my dear, so why not please yourself when it comes to choosing friends. Then at least one person will be happy and you will be sincere in your friendships.

In this case, however, I do not see why you should not continue to be a good friend to both young men. Why must you choose, since it is not a case of love, engagement and marriage, but of "liking" and friendship?

Another suggestion: Never "break up" with a friend because of what some one else says he said or did. Get your information first-hand, and always give the accused the chance to defend himself before believing rumors and reports about him.

Fashion Fads

From Head to Toe—Chanel types of costume jewelry form complete ensemble effects. New shoe ornaments, in more or less conventional designs, are in geometric or floral patterns, large, clear crystals in white, green or blue are especially in favor. In various sizes, these slipper trims are chosen by the younger dancing set in preference to the jewelled buckles, of which they have had ample time to tire.

The Seal of Approbation is placed upon the use of old time intaglio seals, strung together to form bracelets and flat chokers or mounted so as to be attached to fine chains to form earrings and necklaces. In various shapes and sizes, these seals are sharply and clearly cut in either real or imitation turquoise, sardonyx, amethyst or cornelian.

LOVE is all kinds of things to all kinds of men. It depends on the DEPTH and breadth of their IMAGINATION.

But to all women LOVE is much the same. It is the most BEAUTIFUL thing in the world, but rarely is beautiful as they dreamed. For we've all been of love everything is GREAT (including the man). In dreams there are no FLAWS. But in LIFE love is subject to MISHAPS. Just as a man is declaring his love, for example, the PHONE may ring. Just as he is about to bestow a passionate KISS, his ma SNEEZES! One can't tell, and of course a woman NEVER does tell of the small things that have ruined her great MOMENTS.

Women, of course, are more PRACTICAL than men, for is not a woman's business life? The PERPETUATION of it.

But to most men LIFE is business, and for that reason it would sometimes seem that LOVE is really nothing more than a sugar-coated PILL, provided by a far-sighted lady named NATURE.

Youth, in its first kiss, tastes only the SUGAR, and believes that Love is pure CANDY; one just eats for the JOY of it.

But sophistication, which is the EXPERIENCE resulting from swallowing the pill, makes one finally realize that the candy is but a means to an END.

Nature puts SPRING in the year, PERFUME in the air STARS in the sky, and a LIGHT in a woman's eyes, all to an end. To make a man seek a MATE. Then, when he has taken to himself a WIFE this cold hearted dame does not care a jot if he works himself to death to keep her.

Man's business in life is BUSINESS, she thinks, if by that means he PROVIDES for his home.

Woman's business, says the autocrat, is to provide man with plenty to PROVIDE for.

Maybe she is right, but it is certain that not all women are in ACCORD with her.

Many a girl seems to think that if her husband provides ENOUGH for her that is all he is for, but even some men never GROW up and some women die without ever having LIVED.

Love has proved a bitter PILL to some women. To others, the lack of it has been even HARDER to swallow.

The best thing about life today is that men and women do not DECEIVE themselves as much as formerly. At least the women don't. They know there is a price tag on everything they want from life, and most of them EXAMINE the tag before they buy.

In other words, they see through the sugar COATING; and those who take the pill of matrimony do it with their eyes OPEN, and are therefore less likely to be disillusioned afterwards.

In fact, in a great many cases, this sugar coated pill is still the best known REMEDY for selfishness, self-centredness and self-absorption.

FOR THE WOMEN OF MATURE FIGURE WITH SLENDER HIPS.

6136 Simplicity and good taste are reflected in this smart style. The diagonal theme is effectively featured, while a group of plaits lends fullness without disturbing the slender lines.

Silk crepe in navy blue was employed in the making of this design. Bandings and a tiny vestee of satin form the trimming.

This model will also look well in tweed or wool georgette. It is also nice in moire or satin. A serviceable style, smart for daytime wear, for shopping or traveling.

The pattern is cut in 8 sizes: 36, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches bust measure. To make the Dress for a 46-inch size will require 7¼ yards of 39-inch material, together with ¾ yard of contrasting material for facing on vestee and belt. The width of the Dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 53 inches.

Gas ...THE BETTER FUEL

How could you wash Dishes without Hot Water?

IT'S fun doing dishes this way.

Hot sudsy water for washing—more hot water for rinsing.

Then the satisfaction of putting away dishes that shine—they're so clean.

At least one-third of the water used in your home should be hot. And with gas you can have all you want—constantly.

Call on your gas company for demonstrations of water heating, cooking, house heating, refrigeration, incineration and many other uses for GAS—THE BETTER FUEL.

For the information of the people of New England, a series of messages, of which this is one, is being published by the gas industry of New England. They contain interesting facts about GAS—THE BETTER FUEL—and its importance in your home and business.

I always get a whiter wash

.....and no scrubbing or boiling

"I CAN'T see why women stick to old-fashioned soaps, when here's a soap that ends all the hard work of washday.

"I've used Rinso for years now and never fail to get a whiter, brighter wash.

"First, I soak the clothes in the nice, thick Rinso suds. That loosens the dirt so that the clothes need but little rubbing if any at all. As for boiling, it's really unnecessary. And since the Rinso way is so gentle, I feel perfectly safe in trusting my finest linens to it.

"I also find Rinso splendid for all-around cleaning, especially dishes, floors, bathtubs and sinks. It saves money, too—a little does so much."

Millions use Rinso, thousands write us letters like this on one month. (Lots of them are from readers of this very newspaper.)

Amazing new kind of suds

The secret of Rinso is in the suds. Thick, creamy, lasting suds—even in the hardest water.

In machine or tub, these marvelous suds wash clothes whiter. For dirt and stains are magically loosened . . . released! All you need to do is rinse. Think how this safe, gentle way saves the clothes—saves your hands!

More than 32,000 demonstrators of washing machines use Rinso for whiter results. And the makers of 52 washers recommend it for safety.

Get the BIG package from your grocer. It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips or powders. Just feel how weighty the Rinso package is! You get your full money's worth when you buy this compact granulated soap. For best results, follow directions on box.

Adventure and Romance Amid Scenes of Almost Barbaric Splendor

CHAPTER 33.

Trade Horn here reverts to his memory of the American woman missionary from Cincinnati and speaks feelingly to Mrs. Lewis on Christianity.

"Of all my memories of the rivers that White Lady shines the clearest. White she was. Ma'am, right through to her heart and with no more fear than Stanley on a cannibal river.

"It doesn't take the metropolis of the known world to make a Christian. 'Twas on my rivers I found that fine lady. Two voyages she had with me. All eyes she was, that first time. But the second it seemed that all eyes was looking at what I carried. Boxcarts and wood-ox . . . Every mile of that river is haunted. The most sacred river in Africa.

"That's a fine adventurous country where Mahomet meets the cannibals. Aye! Rivers without names and countries without maps . . .

"The Brigands of Lake Chad. 'Twould be a grand title. They tend to catch the women going to Fez to the harems. 'The Brigands of Lake Chad. . . . I sure could have woven some good books it I'd always had the leisure I have now 'Caravans and Camels' would be snappy. But when you're young you want to be always turning the next cover. Books don't grow when you're following the trail.

"Aye and behind the Cameroons there's things living we know nothing about. I could a' made books about many things. The Jago-Nini, they say is still in the swamps and rivers. Giant! Giver it means. Comes out of the waters and devours people. Old men'll tell you what their grandfathers saw, but they still believe it's there.

"Same as the Amadi I've always taken it to be. I've seen the Amadi's footprint. About the size of a good frying pan in circumference and three claws instead of five.

"There are some very big lakes behind the Cameroons. Used to be full of nice seal at one time. Mungi they call it. But the Jago-Nini's wiped 'em almost out, the old natives say. Pigmy elephants there too, and crocodiles that never kill humans. The natives up there talk of some Big Water. And what I say is they must have come from the Nile.

Gay Postponed Facing the Fact That Jerry Was Lost to Her

Gay postponed facing the fact that Jerry Davis was lost to her. "I'm not as little as Dolly Quinn," Gay said.

'There Were Processions and Such Things on the Walls'

"What but some great creature, like the Amadi could account for the broken ivories we used to come across in the so-called elephant cemeteries? Fine old green ivory that's valuable for inlaying wood. Snapped right across in the thickest part and left in splinters.

"That Amadi. I told you I've seen a drawing of him in those Bushman caves. I chiselled one out whole once and gave it to President Grant for a souvenir. He naturally took a great curiosity in the West Coast, seeing that the Civil War he'd been so busy over had ruffled it a bit there.

"Aye, the little fellers that drew those creatures, and manacled slaves and so on I told you about, were not ordinary savages. They were the paleolithic men from the North. They were remembering things, on those walls. Processions and so on I bought a nice ivory from them once, carved with leopards and elephants.

"Nice little fellers, round about four feet and a little over. Shy as buck, until they'd had a good look at you. A living example of the survival of the fittest. Most gifted conjurors in the world. Use flint for weapons. Most harmless race, but they've had to flee from the French rule same as others. They've gone into the Cameroons for safety. Even the Arabs don't know the back of the Cameroons.

"Well, Ma'am, I'll have to finish up what happened to Nina and my friend Peru. It's sure been a bit of refreshment to tell about Africa. I could've told what happened to Nina in two chapters, but it wouldn't be literature. Co-ordinate your material, they say. Aye, 'tis there's neither waste nor paucity of interest.

"Aye, we must get our love interest in. Supposing something happened to Nina and I hadn't finished it.

"Twould sure be a disappointment to those who look forward to the love-light.

"If I'd been in love with her myself 'twould 'a' come easier. But there was always Little Annie Keed at the back of my mind. Peru having Inca blood, he'd naturally under stand a good deal like Lancashire-held me, where love was concerned."

'I Made Arrangements With Nina for Her Release'

I had ample time during my frequent visits to the Josh house to make all arrangements with Nina for her final release. I a'so told her of Mr. Graham, my friend, who would come and help me to take her away.

He would be here in a little while so I warned her to be patient, and above all to be as calm as usual for fear that the men who were continually around the temple should become suspicious, and never commence speaking to me in real earnest before she was sure they were half drunk, as when the liquor was in the white were out.

I noticed she wore a stiletto with a beautifully carved handle in her belt and asked her the reason she wore it. She replied that it had belonged to her mother and she intended to keep it by her as, if we failed in taking her away, she intended to use it.

I asked her how she meant to do so. Oh, she said, I should kill the first person who interfered with me before I have dived in the water. Should she be captured, she said, she would never let them take her alive; whilst she said this a gleam of vengeance shot into her eyes but she quickly recovered and hummed a wild tune.

I was surprised but smiled and she noticed this and smiled also. It will all end well I told her if you only keep calm. My friend will be with me and I will bring enough force to wipe out the town if necessary. That I shall take you to a safer place than this where you will be perfectly free, goes without mentioning. If I can do it by stealth without anyone here seeing or knowing so much the better, if it come to the worst I shall use force and act quickly.

She was greatly pleased with what I told her and gave me a kindly smile of pleasure. I could not miss interpreting it. This lady I could see more than ever before was a fearless and most greatfull piece of Human Structure and was highly intelligent.

Whilst the men folk forgot them selves in their cups I could have walked away with her often at these times, but there was no certainty of this at any time. Her own plan was the best and I determined to follow it as soon as possible. I had left word if news came overland for the messenger to follow me quickly as I would always leave my whereabouts at the small white station at the mouth of the creek.

'Little Sins'; Gay Is Beside Herself With Jealousy of Dolly

curb. The chauffeur held open the tonneau door. Irene got in. Gay got in . . . and immediately backed out again.

"You go on," she begged. "I'll take a poling chair. I've got a rotten headache, and I think that might help. You tell Norma I'll be there pretty soon."

"I'm going with you," said Alan matter-of-factly.

After some argument, a wall from Irene to the effect that "of course you two sacks will never speak up,' and a solemn vow by Alan that they positively would, the limousine containing Mr. and Mrs. Matthews only pulled away.

The boardwalk was crowded at first. Their poling chair moved through a maze of pedestrians and other poling chairs, dodging and zig-zagging. Then a big carpet swept in an over-furnished room People almost brushed against them Children shot across their path in uproarious pursuit of other children. Newsboys screamed in their ears "Penny Allaboutta Pageant' Fifteen Beauties Picked Today Grapejeepers! . . . They rode in a flood of calcium radiance. Ahead of them were the spangled shops, drawn up in a close line and the lofty hotels with the windows now dark, now light, like squares in a giant's crossword puzzle. To their left the plots laid lavalieres of jewels on the black velvet bosom of the sea.

"Pretty, isn't it?"

"Umm," said Gay.

She sat cuddled in her wrap, the collar so arranged that only the top of her head, her moody dark eyes and a white V of face were visible.

"Little Eskimo!" grinned Alan. And then, sobering, "How's the head ache?"

"Fierce."

"I'm so sorry. I wish you could give it to me."

She smiled wanly, not answering The crowd thinned as they went along. Somewhat beyond the Ambassador there were stretches of Boardwalk whereon they passed no one at all. The lights were occasional here. Confusion was a memory. Nothing disturbed the stillness save the drone of their wheels, the measured shuffle of their attendant feet, the sad and sleepy whimper of the ocean.

"I didn't want you to come with me," Gay said abruptly.

"Why not, honey?"

"Because I want to cry, and if I do you'll ask me why—"

"No, I won't."

"And," continued Gay in the same very tiny voice, "I don't know why myself. I only know I feel like crying my eyes out."

Alan slipped his arm around her and drew her head down until it lay against his shoulder. "Go ahead and cry," he whispered, infinitely tender. "Cry all you like, if it'll help. I won't say a word." He rested his bared head over hers, and she could feel his cheek against her hair. "I'm so sorry, little dearest So terribly sorry. Isn't there any thing I can do?"

"No. Nothing. Just hold me."

A minute afterwards she jerked up her head and faced him, dry-eyed "I can't cry" she said. "I want to but I can't—it's down too deep."

"Just rest, then. Put your head back here, and rest."

So they rode on. Steadily. Slowly. Starlight over them, and the grieving sea in their ears. . . .

She thought, "He's gone. He's gone. The only thing in all my life I ever really wanted. Oh, Jerry, why? What did I ever do?"

She thought, "Jerry Darling, I'm prettier than she is I'm cleverer than she is. Don't you know it? You've just forgotten. When you see me again, you'll remember you'll see—"

She thought stormily "It was on his account I was away so long. And then he—he— But he cared, when I went. He did care. That last afternoon. 'Better than anyone,' he said. 'If I hadn't gone—Oh, it's not fair. It's not!'

She thought, "Funny I can't cry. when I've lost him."

Her recollection began to give her pictures of him. Pictures of moods and moments, disconnected like snippings from a dozen different cinema reels, all with the same star, standing on a curbing signal for a taxi with his cane, lounging sideways in his chair at a bridge table squinting through the clouds of the cigarette in his lips picking up his thirteen cards one by one "for luck."

Jerry at the Club Lido, slim and distinguished in dinner clothes, smiling above another girl's head at her as he danced by Jerry as he looked one day when he said, "You know all the love songs that are sung mean you, to me." Little moments, mingled out for some incomprehensible lover's reason, and treasured in her mind these many months.

She recalled the day she first met him. A year ago last May it was, at Lucia Lowden's wedding reception. She had been a bridesmaid in a bouffant Nile-green gown and a picture hat to match.

She had stood for hours in the receiving line, mouthing names, taking hands passed to her by bridesmaid on her left, passing them on to the bridesmaid on her right, wondering how long this would last. . . Suddenly she had taken a hand that seemed not to want to let here go. Dark eyes had touched into her surprised eyes, and a low, intimate voice had drawled "I love your little nose. I've been saying it over to myself ever since I found out what it was—as." He had spoken it like an endearment.

Later, dancing with her, he had said wilfully, "Help me not to fall in love with you, won't you please? I'd really so much rather not."

She thought, "Well, he has his wish now."

She thought, "And there just isn't anything left for me. There just isn't—anything—left."

All these things she thought while she rode through the starlight, with Alan's arm holding her close, with Alan's face murmuring a quiet mind filled meter under her heedless head.

"We're about there, honey."

She sat up and stared around her, frowning. "Oh Lord So we are." She turned to him. "I see I'm not just can't go to that party. Alan? Don't make me."

The ghost of a grin stirred Alan's lips. "I'm afraid not."

"Of course Gay do anything she did not wish to do was compliment— but ludicrous.

"Of course not, baby," he said "We won't go in till you feel like it. Isn't the headache any better?"

"It isn't so much headache," declared Gay, "as it's blues" she reflected lazily that Alan must be perplexed and speculating, and that it might be well to make some sort of explanation. "Everything's a mess lately," she told him "In the first place, God is having finan cial troubles. I don't know how serious they'll prove to be, but of course they worry me. He looks 10 years older than he did when Mother and I sailed for Europe And then there are other things—"

She broke off. "Let's go down and sit on the beach shall we? I'm tired of riding."

They dismissed the rolling chair and descended the nearest flight of steps to the sand.

"You can't walk in this," said Alan. "Glad for the slippers."

He stooped and picked her up, and carried her along as if she were no heavier than her clothes. "You're so little," he murmured.

"I'm not."

"Yes, you are. Just a gadget."

"I'm not as little as Dolly Quinn," Gay said ungardedly.

"Who—oh, you mean that Miss Manhattan."

"Yes."

"What made you think of her?"

"I don't know. Just popped into my head."

She was borne along for several yards more. "Where are you taking me, Alan?" she demanded at last "Didn't you hear me say I was tired of riding? Let me down."

He put her down carefully, and stood himself in the shielding crook beside her. "The idea to begin with," he said, "was to get away from the crowd. But it's nice and secret for us. I'd have carried you clear to Chesapeake Bay if you hadn't reminded me."

He drew her into the curve of his arm again, and she relaxed in it, scarcely aware. It was just an arm Comfortable, cozy, but impersonal as a cushion stuffed with cotton.

Three-Minute Trips

By TEMPLE MANNING.

"WE live in this world but a few score years at most: in the other world life is eternal. Is it not better, then, to concern ourselves more with our habitation in the next world than in this?"

The motto above is that of an Arabian tribe living in Africa. These people, then, neglect their own comfort, live in homes that are little more than hovels, and spend their all in making their graveyards things of beauty—or what is their conception of beauty. For the graveyard appears to be the nightmare of a futurist artist. The tombstones, made of rare and expensive stone, are fantastically decorated. Many of the more ornate are inlaid with rare and precious stones, and most of them are porcelain in

The cemetery is cared for by a staff of men whose duty it is to wash the stones each day, keeping them as white as snow. As soon as the dampness has dried up it them begin to fade they are repainted. No labor is too great for the dead. Indeed, I'd have carried you clear to Chesapeake Bay if you hadn't reminded me."

He drew her into the curve of his arm again, and she relaxed in it, scarcely aware. It was just an arm Comfortable, cozy, but impersonal as a cushion stuffed with cotton.

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby's Babies Have Nerves

By RUTH BRITTAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying and sleeplessness.

Fretfulness, crying and sleeplessness from these causes can always be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you find that it can't be done, making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria and be thankful to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on every bottle. Feeling physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, which fits weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper package, so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.

Producer Plans Movie Series for Boys

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, May 24—From Adventure . . . a certain well-known collar, to becoming the hero of the American boy is a far cry. Yet Charles Rogers, producer and film adventurer, believes that he can so popularize Reed Howes in the character of Rex Farrell that the boys of the land will ask for more of these featurettes of two and three reels.

I call them "featurettes" because that is the name given them by Rogers and his partner, Harry J. Brown. Howes' job is to impersonate the character of Russ Farrell in "The American Boy" and in others of the series written by Thomson Burtis.

The Model Airplane League of America of which Commander Richard Byrd is the president has agreed to sponsor aeronautic adventures. Who knows but that the modern boy will lead Russ Farrell as his idea instead of the fictional heroes of Horatio Alger, so loved by the lads of a generation ago.

THE only time the film colony is shaken out of its summer lethargy is when some star suddenly develops a singing voice Lupe Velez, Mexican Ingenue, gave Joseph Schenck a tremendous shock when she gave a demonstration of what she and her ukulele could do at jazz.

It was Al Jolson and Irving Berlin who first acquainted Schenck with Lupe's talent. Berlin was so charmed with the quality of her voice plus her vocal personality that he has persuaded Schenck to change the entire scenario of "La Paiva." Instead, "La Paiva," by Karl Vollmoeller, becomes 'The Love Song" with musical interpolations by Irving Berlin.

Gardner Sullivan has written a whole new scenario for Lupe which will be produced with a talking device. Sam Taylor continues as her director and William Boyd as her leading man.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Who is served first at a dinner party—hostess or guest?

2. Is it proper for the hostess to carve when she is not serving?

B. K.

THERE is much dispute about this question, and there is no definite answer. I wish that there were! Usually, in this country, the hostess is served first. This is a left-over from the old, old custom of having the host taste first of the food and beverage to show guests that they are not poisoned! And then, some years ago, it also was appropriate to have the hostess served first, so that she could indicate to the guests how a complicated dish was to be taken. But now that food is so simply served there is not this reason, and many hostesses are giving orders to their waitresses that the guest of honor should be served first.

It is far more convenient. The point to be kept in mind when carving and serving are done at table is convenience.

Verdict of Woman Who Tried Pinkham's Compound

Tully, N. Y.—"It hurt me to walk or sit down without help and I felt sick and weak. My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. The medicines have done as much for me as the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHARLES MONSAM, R. F. D. 1, Tully, N. Y.

Not will do for me what the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHARLES MONSAM, R. F. D. 1, Tully, N. Y.

ARE YOU ALWAYS LOYAL TO YOUR EMPLOYER?

By J. J. MUNDY

THE way you speak of your employer denotes the sort of person you are.

You may not agree with him, always, but you should be loyal to him when talking to others.

If you cannot be loyal to your employer, you are in the wrong place.

Get out now, for you will later, and you will never become a permanent employe if you are disloyal, in word, thought or deed.

You lack interest—your viewpoint is wrong—your sympathies, nil.

Without these you cannot give the best service.

Your defection is against you from a personal standpoint and it detracts from your usefulness to your employer.

There must be loyalty in your heart, confidence in your firm and in the commodities it handles.

If you cuss the boss and his methods you will never reach an important position with the firm.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is actually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

IN the game of love the last card a woman should play is her heart.

* * *

A woman's love may be starved to death or frozen to death, but a man's love is nearly always choked to death or talked to death.

* * *

Perhaps the reason why a woman keeps on asking a man to tell her that he loves her is because she has a subconscious conviction that if she can make him say it over often enough, he will come to believe it, himself.

* * *

The reason so few men complain of dyspepsia these days is probably because most of them are "starving" along on the wife's reducing diet.

* * *

Before marriage a man is charmed by a woman's ability to see a lot of things in him—after marriage, by her ability to overlook a lot of things.

* * *

Getting the first lover, the first husband or the first job is the hard est. Most men seem to require "previous experience" in these days in everything from petting to marriage and business.

* * *

The most serious business of the younger generation appears to be its desperate effort to convince the world that it doesn't take itself seriously.

* * *

At first, a bride likes to drop in unexpectedly at her husband's office to tell him what she's been doing; later, she is apt to drop in even more unexpectedly to find out what HE'S been doing.

* * *

The old-fashioned boy got an education by burning the midnight oil; the modern boy gets most of his by burning the midnight gasoline.

DUDE RANCHES' CONFERENCE ON WAIT TOURISTS RECREATIONS

Simplicity combined with comfort is the keynote of the Dude Ranch. An typical farm it is a genuine Western stock ranch whose accommodations have been amplified to entertain a number of vacation guests—honorably entitled "dudes" in Western parlance.

It provides abundant, savory food and comfortable shelter, but not the complex superfluities of modern city life. Its hospitality is something far more spontaneous and personal than that of an ordinary summer resort: its sports are the simple ones of the wilderness—fishing, hunting, exploration, and above all Western riding.

The expert in these arts is free to enjoy them when and how he pleases; the novice is given skilled instruction and assistance. The "Dude Wrangler" always tries to select congenial guests who sincerely love the out-of-doors; for such guests, whether men, women or children, no vacation could be more profoundly satisfying.

Many of the Dude ranches served by Union Pacific lines are located in Wyoming—in Jackson Hole, and the adjacent territory, or in the Southeast near Laramie and Cheyenne.

Other fine ranches are located in the wilder portions of the Colorado mountains; in Utah and rugged country of southwestern Montana and central Idaho; in the mountains region of Oregon, and in or near the oalcelad hills of the San Bernardino National Forest.

In the display window of the Manisters Tourist Agency, 248 Washington st., Boston, there is a fine exhibit of old Indian relics and workmanship, also an assortment of oldtime firearms and cowboy utensils used at these Dude ranches which are attracting unusual attention.

Chimes for Trains

Echoes of California mission chimes soon will be heard on Australian railroad trains, according to F. S. McGinnis, passenger traffic manager for the Southern Pacific, who says that the type of dinner call recently made popular on the Overland Limited and other famous western trains is about to be introduced upon the island continent.

The recreational interests of New England will meet at Burlington, Vt., tomorrow, to discuss common problems of merchandising New England's recreational resources.

With a great wealth of recreational assets properly merchandised and aggressively sold, New England will benefit by increased cash income, increased taxable wealth, and increased sale of its agricultural and manufactured products.

It will be the purpose of this third New England recreational conference to consider ways and means whereby New England may take greater advantage of her recreational resources.

The conference is scheduled tomorrow in order that those who attend may have the opportunity to spend the week-end in this beautiful section along our northern border.

REDUCED RATES ARE PLANNED FOR JUNE

Many of New England's resorts are reducing rates to vacationists during the month of June when conditions are not nearly so crowded as during July and August. They are receiving the hearty cooperation of the railroad and steamship lines.

Some of the steamship lines are extending lower rates on round trip tickets until the first of July.

Take a trip in June is rapidly becoming the slogan which the resorts, railroad and steamship lines.

VERMONT HIGHWAYS GOOD FOR TRAFFIC

There seems to be a prevalent idea that all highways in Vermont were so damaged by flood as to be impassable or difficult to travel.

This is not true, according to Edward Griffith, secretary Manchester board of trade. The main highways in Southern Vermont were not affected by the flood.

By June 1 all highways in Southern Vermont and practically all highway in Vermont will be in good shape, says Mr. Griffith.

$1 INSURANCE IS PRAISED BY CAPT. PARKER

Capt. George A. Parker, Registrar of Motor Vehicles and former head of the Massachusetts State Constabulary, has joined other leading State officials and business men in Praising the Boston Evening American's offer of a $10,000 accident insurance policy for $1 a year.

"Your offer is a vital issue for every man and woman in New England," declared Captain Parker. "In these days of increasing accidents anyone with common sense must realize that protection through insurance of some sort is a necessity.

"No prudent business man or householder would go five minutes without insurance on his property. Neither should the man or woman possessing nothing but the weekly pay envelope go without life or accident insurance.

"Accidents will occur, no matter what safeguards are erected with the intention of preventing them. Too often are the victims of railroad and the general run of everyday tragedies found to be without insurance of any kind.

"Here in Massachusetts the compulsory automobile insurance is doing much good. But the man or woman who does not come within the scope, and their dependents, are the ones who suffer through neglect of not being insured. It is nothing but neglect or carelessness when accident insurance can be obtained so cheaply.

LAUDS PLAN

"The Boston Evening American in distributing a $10,000 accident insurance policy at $1 a year in connection with its attempt to reduce the number of accidents is rendering a great public service to the people of Massachusetts and all New England.

As the head of the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles, Capt. Parker sees every day the vital need of adequate insurance as a protection for the injured and those dependent upon them. One of his duties is to see that not an automobile driver goes out on the road without insurance.

But Capt. Parker cannot prevent you from going out on the highway or in the streets, in the railway trains, or to your place of employment without being injured, unless you drive an automobile. You are the one who must decide on your own protection.

Statisticians assert that 86,000 persons are maimed through accidents in 1928. Thousands more are due to become injured at their work, in the streets or in their homes.

Will you be one of them? What will your dependents do? Are you not those dependents protected?

Think of this—the Boston Evening American is offering you a $10,000 accident insurance policy for $1 a year. Protection for yourself and those who are dependent upon you if accident and suffering should come.

POLICY AT COST

There is nothing more to pay. The Boston Evening American, through a special contract, is distributing these policies at cost to anyone and everyone in New England.

Realizing the value of the insurance-at-cost offer, thousands of New England residents are sending their coupon applications for the $10,000 accident insurance policy to the insurance office of the Boston Evening American, at No. 5 Winthrop sq. The applications are arriving with such many accompanied by letters stating their appreciation of the remarkable protection offer.

The Boston Evening American is making this insurance-at-cost offer solely as an act of public service. It is a part of its effort to reduce the number of accidents, which have reached appalling proportions. Every penny of the 1 that brings the $10,000 accident insurance policy to you goes to the insurance company issuing the policy. All additional costs are borne by this newspaper.

No medical examination is required and there are no strings attached. All you have to do is to fill out the coupon printed elsewhere, send or bring it, with $1, mailed or sure that the money will not be lost, to the Boston Evening American office, and $10,000 worth of accident insurance is yours.

(See Coupon on Page 18.)

MOTHER URGES SAFETY DON'TS FOR DRIVERS

share in teaching them the danger of the streets. I herewith enclose my Safety Don't for children and also a set of Dont's for drivers who need them as much as the children.

"Although drivers are supposed to have more brains than a child, FEW of them SHOW IT.

"Of all mean drivers, the one known as the pushing 'SNEAKER' is the meanest. When the traffic signal is in favor of the pedestrian he darts across as the light, when around the corner dashes a 'SNEAKER' pell mell.

"If the careless pedestrian it's certainly not his fault. He feels that he OWNS THE ROAD, but where is the use for the child and pedestrians in general?

"Why don't these drivers blow their horns around a corner a little more carefully?

"No, they must DASH around and it's a miracle they don't kill many more than they do.

"Yes, they are 'safety killing."

Here is Mrs. Storm's code of "DON'TS FOR DRIVERS."

1—Don't think you are driving a fire engine.

2—Don't be a corner SNEAKER.

3—Don't risk your life higher than a child's.

4—Don't be in such a rush—you'll be a long time dead.

5—Don't be a ROAD HOG.

6—Don't forget the horn on your car.

7—Don't think of the public as ANTS. They may have a family support.

8—Don't "rubber."

9—Don't use foot passengers for bowling pins.

10—Don't make a morgue of our public highways.

LAW IS QUOTED.

Of course mothers who feel that the greater burden rests upon the motorists are 'right—they are not only right from the standpoint of common sense, but because the law explicitly places the burden on the motorists.

The highest court of the land, our United States Supreme Court, in a recent decision said:

The streets belong to the public. Pedestrians have the right to walk on any part of the street, or roadway, and this right cannot be taken away. Driving a car is a privilege that may be revoked at any time, therefore the license incumbent upon the driver of the automobile to see to it that he does not injure the PEDESTRIAN.

Notwithstanding this decision IT MUST BE REMEMBERED that NO COURT DECISION CAN MAKE HOLY SAINTS OF MEN. And there are thousands of selfish fools operating automobiles.

Therefore, mothers of New England, keep eternally on your Safety Don'ts and DON'T forget to send them to the Boston Evening American, because they stimulate interest in this important matter and help the good work.

NO PRIVATE FIGHT

While the Motherg' Safety Drive is primarily for the purpose of impressing mothers with the importance of home safety instruction, it is not a private fight. Anyone may get in on it, and the more the merrier.

We received a letter that is well worth publishing. It reads:

"We wish to compliment you on the wonderful cause you have undertaken in highway safety editor of the Boston Evening American, which we assure you is a huge success and an asset to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"The Capitol Theater of Somerville wishes to state that it is more than willing to co-operate to protect the public, especially the children.

"On Saturday mornings we cater to about 2400 children and for their protection we have police officers detailed at the front of the theater—Officers John J. Smith and John J. Dunleavey—who certainly are doing their share to help the cause along.

"These officers take care of the children when they are coming and leaving. We also have a safety song that we have the children sing every Saturday, a copy of which I am enclosing.

"Assuring you again of our co-operation, we are "Very truly yours,

"George A. Smith,
"Management Capitol Theater."

The "Safety Song," enclosed in the letter, will be sung to the tune "Always, sing, sing, sing:

"Obey the law always,
For the Safety Cause always.
To spread the laws you planned
Here to help our land.
We will lend a hand always, always.
Police may not be there always,
That is where we'll take care always.
Not for just an hour,
Not for just a day,
Not for just a year, but—ALWAYS.

Now isn't that a wonderful idea. It is one worthy of imitation by every movie house in New England, and we hope mothers and teachers will teach the song to the children, for the sentiment and the song are well worth while.

'WELCOME ARCH' WILL BE FEATURE AT ELKS' SHOW

To Elks from all over New England, thousands of whom are expected to be present with their families and friends, at Braves Field, Saturday night, when the 50th anniversary celebration of the founding of Boston Lodge, No. 10, takes place, the feature which will be of greatest interest, of the scores of numerous amusement numbers, will be the "Welcome Arch." This will depict the more important events and incidents in the long and successful career of Boston Lodge.

In addition there will be numerous vaudeville acts, dance revues by the Dolan-DePetro Studio, ballets by Mme. Fapolardi and her famous pupils, the Elks Band, the Elks Glee Club, a mammoth fireworks display and many other delightful features.

A feature which has created an unusual interest throughout Greater Boston is the Elks Women's Popularity Contest, which has brought into the field nearly 500 contestants.

Chef Lectures

Vincent Maiocco, chef of the Savoy Cafe, gave a lesson in fine cooking to housewives at the Martha Lee Kitchen.

HOUSEWIVES HEAR CHEF

The weather was no damper on the enthusiasm of the interested audience of housewives who attended a lesson in practical cookery given yesterday afternoon. In the Martha Lee Kitchen by Vincent Maiocco, chef of the Savoy Cafe.

For eight years Maiocco was connected with the City Club, and patrons of the Savoy are fortunate in enjoying the famous dishes originated by him.

Spaghetti a la Gary, which in the housewives' cooking terms means spaghetti with a delicious tomato, pepper and chicken sauce, Filet Mignon with Bordelaise sauce, Brook Trout a la Savoy and Anchovy Milanaise were four of the specialties prepared by Maiocco.

The most unusual pie ever recipes will be found on the magazine page of this paper next Monday.

CAPT. WILKINS, POLAR FLIER, HONORED IN OSLO

Oslo, Norway, May 24 (AP)—Capt. George Wilkins and Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, his companion on their flight across the Polar region from Alaska to Spitzbergen, were warmly welcomed today when they arrived at Oslo on the Norge from Teneriffe. The explorers were received by the authorities, the presidents of the Aero Club and the Geographical Society, and by a representative from the American Legation. The streets through which the fliers drove were crowded with cheering spectators. Later both motored to Svartskog, home of Roald Amundsen, outside of Oslo, where a reception was held in their honor.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Tourist Dollars

New England Can Get Millions More of Them

Given fair weather, and perhaps a little more temperature than we've been having, there are no more delightful settings in which to hold a meeting than those a committee of the New England Council has chosen for tomorrow's Third New England Recreational Conference.

The morning session will be held on the roof of the Hotel Vermont in Burlington, overlooking Lake Champlain, the Adirondacks and the Green Mountains.

In the afternoon the conferees will assemble on board the Ticonderoga, cruising around the lake.

Some would find it difficult to get down to business amid such surroundings, but scenery offers few distractions to men and women who go to beautiful Burlington from the Maine coast, Poland Springs, Mt. Washington, Crawford Notch, the Berkshires or Narragansett Bay.

The tourist trade has become our most rapidly growing industry. Maine attracts 110,000,000 tourist dollars every year. One hundred and fifty boys' and girls' camps in that State spend $60,000 for milk, $100,000 more for State of Maine canned goods.

That the hotel and resort men, the camp executives and others interested are serious in their determination to cultivate this profitable trade is suggested by some of the subjects which will be discussed tomorrow:

1—An engineer's analysis of what the development of recreational resources will mean to New England in the way of increased cash income, greater taxable wealth, and increased sale of agricultural and manufactured products.

2—The natural resources of New England constitute the basis of the product and services that the recreational industry has to sell. For this industry to prosper, these resources must be preserved, protected, and developed along lines that take account of the future.

3—To whom should the recreational industry devote its selling efforts? Where? What do these people demand in the way of recreational attractions and facilities? How can they be reached?

4—What other regions have superior recreational assets? What are they doing to attract people to them? What is New England doing to combat this competition?

One of the immediate results of this conference is expected to be the launching of a co-operative effort to merchandise and sell AGGRESSIVELY the recreational attractions of the playground paradise we call New England.

Chairman Hiram Ricker's associates on the Committee on Recreational Resources are Mr. William A. Barron of Crawford Notch, Mr. F. E. Langley of the Barre, Vt., Daily News; Major P. F. O'Keefe, Boston advertising man; Mr. John C. Cosseboom, Woonsocket realtor, and Mr. Almon C. Judd, Waterbury, Ct., hotel man.

They are doing good work for New England. Because their field is one which every New Englander knows at least a little about they attract and hold the public interest and strengthen the confidence of the people in the Council.

An Invitation to Repent

Millions Will Heed It

Pope Pius in an important encyclical invites the world to repent of its sins, especially those powers that from east to west "tread underfoot the rights of the church."

Another important sin, rebuked in the same encyclical, is woman's immodest dress. The "Feast of the Sacred Heart" is set apart for repentance, and a new special form of prayer is prescribed.

Pope Pius, publishing his encyclical, has the satisfaction of knowing that millions all over the world will read, and heed, the admonition.

Fortunately also, attacks on religion, like attacks on modesty, fade and are forgotten.

It is less than a century and a half since every church was closed in Paris by order of the Commune. All thought that religion had been permanently abolished.

Those churches are all open again and fulfilling their functions.

ALL YOUTH TODAY IS NOT GILDED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY once in awhile somebody breaks out with the accusation that the world is going to the dogs; that young people are more frivolous than they used to be, that old people are the only ones who realize their responsibilities and that when they die wisdom will die with them.

I have always had the conviction that the young people of today are more soberminded and more openminded and altogether more serious than were the young people of yesterday.

The very fact that they are digging into the foundations of things and asking Why about things that their elders always accepted upon authority indicates that the young people are anxious to establish their thinking upon a correct basis.

Those who have much to do with young people of both sexes realize that while some of them may be "jazz mad" and foolish, the great majority of them are serious.

Many people think that boys go to college nowadays merely for athletics or amusement or social privileges.

It is refreshing to have the colleges and universities give us a few statistics that negative this idea.

These figures prove that the young people of today are occupying themselves with higher education so as to be better workmen, so as to better assume the responsibilities of life; and also that while they are doing this they are either partially or entirely supporting themselves.

Not very long ago the boy who engaged in self-support while he was at college was looked down upon. He may not have been snubbed or persecuted, but he just simply was not known. And girls who were working their way through school were rare.

Today an increasing number of students are going to school without a rich father to send them and are making their way by their own efforts.

Some of them are musicians and play in dance orchestras. Some girls play at musicals and teas.

Some universities maintain employment bureaus. The students wait on tables in dining halls, do housework, act as managers for fraternity houses, do typing and stenography, work in the gymnasium and do all sorts of stunts. Most of these jobs are paid by room and board.

These students are going to school because they want to. They are driven to school by a thirst for knowledge and the chances of their making good are much larger than if this education was handed to them on a silver plate.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

SIT down and be humble—two! weeds are going to talk to you.

There's that common plant you've seen hundreds of times, growing along railroad tracks—"equisetum sylvaticum" the wise men have named it but the youngsters call it "horse tail rush." Queer-looking thing—isn't it? With its gritty, scaley stem sticking up from the ground like a knobbed twig, until it branches into rough, greenish tufts. And its history is even queerer than it looks, for that common horse tail rush is about the oldest plant on earth.

Long before the hot, young earth was able to produce flowering, seed bearing plants, cruder forms of vegetation were growing in steaming marsh and swamp. Strange forms—some of them more like animals than plants. Algae in the water—squirming scum—Spirogyra—"frog spit," you used to call it in your swimming pool days.

Mosses, lichens, mushrooms, clinging to rock and sand, fumbling their way up from the water into the air. Then the great ferns, with life held in spores beneath their fronds. And their horse tail rushes. But not the small, dwarfed rushes which we see now. Great shafts of spongy greenness towering above the swamps, arching to form dank tunnels through which gigantic reptiles crawled.

A dripping, steaming, bubbling, teaming, hot new world rolling among the stars for millions of cool years. And then, at last, a cooled and hardened world in which flowers bloomed, birds sang and man stalked upon his conquering way.

The great swamp creatures dead and gone, hardly a trace of them remaining. The skeleton of a Neanderthal man—and a horse tail rush, growing beside a railroad track, its fifty foot shoots dwarfed to a mosquito's perch.

Whale of a story, that! And (it's more than the story of a plant—it's the story of YOU. There are horse tail rushes in you, too—things, in you, that have come down millions of years. Hot, slimy impulses—hate and greed and envy and fear—holdovers from the old days of swamp and cave. Dwarfed a bit, by civilization, but still persisting beside the track of your soul.

Think of that when you look at a horse tail rush, and don't be so proud of your "touchy temper," or your "jealous disposition." You might as well be proud of a scaley tail!

Yes, the horse tail rush will certainly make you feel humble, but there's another little plant that will brace your knees and put new hope in your heart. "Sisurhinchium" the botanists have tagged it, but the children have a better name—"blue-eyed grass." Remember how it grew along your road to school, clumps of stiff, grassy blades with tiny, dark blue flowers.

Common little flowers, as common as horse tail rushes, and as amazing. For that tiny flower is the beginning of the iris family and is the grandma of all the stately purple and white fleurs de lys which fringe your garden path. There their beauty started—in that modest beginning of loveliness.

There's a thought for you. For if you have horse tail rushes lingering in your nature, you also have blue-eyed grass budding there. The vestige of ugliness, but also the beginning of beauty. Like climbing up from the slime—reaching out to a star—in your heart and mine.

NEW YORK, May 24—Traffic experts agree the only solution of Manhattan's congestion is in elevated streets. The problem now is how, when and where they will be placed. It is conceded relief must come within the next two years or the main arteries will become hopelessly clogged.

As it is, midtown frequently becomes so snarled in traffic knots that automobile passengers leave their cars with chauffeurs and walk to public transit conveyances to continue their way. The heaviest point of traffic reaches its tide at Columbus Circle at 5:30 in the evening.

West st., near the docks, is the only thoroughfare to have an upper stretch of street level. It has proved effective. The big jolt of raised streets will fall upon owners of real estate along the line of proposed elevation. Their property, it is said, will depreciate more than half.

Those who thought the famed Holland tunnel to New Jersey would provide a noticeable relief in traffic found it did not make the slightest dent. Thousands of suburbanites never bring their autos into the city. They ride to the outskirts and transfer to subway, elevated or surface cars.

Peculiarly enough, traffic hindrances have not discouraged automobile buying among city dwellers, and this year sales reached a new high peak. And with New York's usual impetuosity for overdoing things, the heaviest sales were among those block-long cars where the drivers sit out in the rain.

Every feasible suggestion has been tried for relief of traffic to theaters, and still the press is impossible to handle. It is a common sight to see men and women in evening clothes who have left their cars outside the traffic zone, walking to the theater in order not to miss the first act.

New York never had such a season of theatrical hits as the last, and yet a slump in patronage was pronounced, due solely to the fact that many had to wait in the wind, snow and rain often for an hour before their autos could reach them. Traffic is New York's greatest problem.

A FREAK show on the lower East Side has a "Hairless Wonder." He has no eyebrows, hair on his head, beard, mustache or hirsute adornment of any description. But he is not a natural freak. He was a Pittsburgh mill worker up until four years ago, when he stopped in at a night lunch stand for a hot tamale. It was full of ptomaine poisons so powerful they killed all the roots of his hair.

AMONG the gambling fraternity of Broadway, it is said, there are innumerable laudanum drinkers. It is a drug habit reputed to be the most difficult of all to detect and inspires a mental alertness without the visible exhilaration so pronounced in other drugs. Nor is there the pallor so noticeable among morphine and cocaine addicts.

NO romance is so fleeting as those contracted aboard ships. The mystery of the sea, the moon, the stars and the adventurous urge of a voyage stir the most unromantic pulses. There is the story of a young couple who arrived at a New York pier last week pledged to undying devotion. The next morning he called her on the telephone early with feverish expectation.

"I'll be around in a few moments," he gasped, "to go with you for a license."

"Don't be silly," was the yawning reply. "No ocean is making a fool of me this season." And she hung up in his ear.

SOME elegant word mixer should describe New York in a fog with its old silhouettes and arabesques. The metropolis is never more beautiful than when drenched with the mist that nests up from the harbor.

AND some aesthetic soul in Brooklyn writes to know if I have ever stood bare-headed on Brooklyn bridge at daybreak and read from "The Ancient Mariner." I haven't. And I believe I'd have to be a little drunk to put my heart in it.

They Surely Can Skate

MISS BRUNNER, FROM AUSTRIA

old, is probably the best female skater in the world. She comes from Oslo.

The other lady, Fraulein Melitta Brunner, an Austrian, certainly is not afraid of falling.

These pictures are printed to inspire interest in athletics of the right kind, and to remind young women that with will and practice almost anything can be done.

Either of these young ladies, balanced on a thin point of steel, on glittering ice, feels and IS as secure as you would be with both feet rubber-shod on rough pavement.

Truly we human beings are "fearfully and wonderfully made," and like the man in the Bible, we should praise the Lord.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

He that calls a man ungrateful sums up all the evil that a man can be guilty of.—Swift.

Every man is valued in this world, as he shows by his conduct that he wishes to be valued.—La Bruyere.

He, who, in questions of right, virtue, or duty, sets himself above all ridicule, is truly great, and shall laugh in the end with truer mirth than ever he was laughed at.

—Lavater.

No people are more often wrong than those who will not allow themselves to be wrong.

—La Rochefoucauld.

Not one false man but does unaccountable mischief. —Carlyle.
